Bodies found 'Dumping ground' reputation swells

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of the Roman Staff
Romulus - beginning to be called the "dumping ground" for Metropolitan Detroit's murder victims - has produced two more slayings.

Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol officers said two bodies were found in the vicinity of Henry Ruff and Beverly roads at 8:30 a.m. Although officers would make no positive identification of the bodies until the family was notified, they believe the two victims were Keith Arnold, 6, and Gerald Kraft, 8. Both were kidnapped from in front of their babysitter's home at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday. "THERE'S NOT much doubt they're the bodies of the two youngsters," said a spokesman for the sheriff's patrol. "But we have to wait for the morgue to determine their identities and for the parents to confirm them."

The officer said the causes of death were "two or three gunshots in each child," and indicated the two had each been shot with at least two different weapons.

"We'll know for sure as soon as the morgue has examined them," the spokesman added.

The body believed to be that of eight-year-old Gerald Kraft was found on Beverly Road west of Henry Ruff Road at 8:30 a.m. yesterday by investigating officers.

THE OFFICERS were on the scene following a phone tip that something resembling a body had been seen by the road.

The body believed to be that of six-year-old Keith Arnold was found at 10 a.m. yesterday lying at the side of Henry Ruff Road, south of Van Born Road.

"It's a remote spot," an officer said. "It had been used as a dumping ground for bodies in the past."

Yesterday's was the seventh incident in the last five months in which bodies were dumped in remote areas of Romulus. ON AT LEAST two occasions, -yesterday, and less than one month prior to that - at least two bodies were found at the same time.

In most other incidents, the slayings were believed to have been drug-related. However, sheriff's patrol investigators would not speculate on the reason either for the kidnapping or the slayings.

The kidnapers of the two youths had demanded $53,000 in ransom for the youngsters' safe return Sunday evening. The alleged kidnapers had been in touch with the Arnold family, demanding the ransom.

LATE SUNDAY evening, two suspects eluded officers of the Detroit Police Department when they picked up a phoney ransom package in the northwestern section of the city just west of Marygrove College.

The kidnapers had demanded that the package be left on Griggs Street, just south of Fenkell Road at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police officers were unable to surround the area because the kidnapers named the drop-off point only minutes before the pick-up was to be made.

Officers of the Detroit Police Department, the Sheriff's Patrol and the Federal Bureau of Investigation were at the scene yesterday, searching for possible clues in the case.

The FBI had been called into the case Monday, two days after the youngsters disappeared.

YOU BETTER WATCH OUT—Santa's coming to town in Romulus, arriving at the city hall around 7:15 p.m. Friday. Santa will be on hand shortly afterwards to distribute candy canes to the youngsters and meet his friends in Romulus. Ceremonies are to start at 7 p.m. with the singing of Christmas carols.—Romulus Roman photo.

Mayor to retain heads of the city departments

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of the Roman Staff

There was a massive sigh of relief in Romulus City Hall Monday. That was the day all the city's department heads received official notice from Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt they'll be kept on the city's payroll at least until Jan. 1.

"That will give us enough time to evaluate the performance of the present department heads," Troutt said shortly after releasing the letters. "Naturally, we'll want to keep the most conscientious ones on the staff."

Receiving notice they were being kept on the staff until Jan. 1 were George Wilhelm, director of urban renewal and public housing director; Marie DeBuyscher, recreation director; Helen Gallien, finance director;

Harold Reiner, city assessor; Larry Moore, water and sewer department head; and Dave Paul, acting head of the department of public works.

AT THE HEIGHT of the election controversy, the opponents said Troutt would fire all department heads to fill their positions with his cronies.

However, Troutt appears somewhat to be pleased with the administrative staff he inherited from the former Mayor, Hyle J. Carmichael.

"The work of these people impresses me," Troutt said. "They've all been more than cooperative, and have shown that they will work, if given proper direction."

"It's making any decisions about possible changes that much harder than before."

TROUTT SAID all department heads were to be relieved of their jobs by noon yesterday, according to the city charter. But, the work facing the new mayor has been so overwhelming that he hasn't had time to evaluate the present administrators.

"I've been trying to hire new people - particularly an industrial coordinator," the mayor said. "That's why I so much appreciate the work of the entire staff."

He wouldn't specify whether he'll be firing people after Jan. 1, but he has invited all the department heads to a pre-meeting dinner in the city hall before last night's city council meeting.

"It's time everyone got to meeting everyone else," he said. "We may all be working together for a long time."

AT THAT SAME meeting, Troutt brought out some prospective new hires, including a new city planner.

The mayor declined to reveal the name of the prospective planner because he wanted to sample council opinion on him.

However, he was confident that the man would please the city council. "We get that man on the staff, and we'll be able to get some things rolling," the mayor said. "It seems like a slow process."

St., and her brother, Lloyd, 12. The decorations were made by 56 youngsters who popped pop corn and strung cranberry garlands to be draped on the tree. No lights were used to conserve energy.—Romulus Roman photo.

For charity

Romulus Goodfellows will sell newspapers

The Romulus Goodfellows will be out in force Saturday to collect funds in an effort to benefit 100 needy families in the city.

The Goodfellows will be on the major road intersections peddling a special "Good-fellow Edition."

All funds collected from the sale of the newspapers will be used to insure that "no kiddie is without a Christmas" in Romulus this holiday season.

More than 45 people are expected to sell 4,000 newspapers in the hopes of raising $1,500 for needy families in the area.

Funds will be used to purchase food, clothing, toys and food for those families who face a possibility of a bleak Christmas without the help of the Romulus volunteers.

Should a person know of a family in need of assistance, he should write the Romulus Goodfellows in care of the Romulus Post Office, Romulus 48174.

Lambert heads department

City accepts service complaints

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of the Roman Staff

If service is government's most important product, then Dan Lambert may be the most important administrator in Romulus government...after the mayor, of course.

Lambert is in charge of Romulus' Department of Responsive Government - a new concept in city government.

It's his job to insure that Romulus citizens get the top notch service they deserve.

"THE PEOPLE of this city elected a new government to improve on their city services," Lambert said. "I take it upon myself - as my personal responsibility - to insure that government functions as equitably and efficiently as possible in the city."

"I love this city, and it's people, and want to serve them."

Lambert was hired as the interim department head by the newly elected mayor, Terry L. Troutt. But, Troutt maintains there will be a place for Lambert, either as the complaint department head, or in the ordinance department.

"I told Danny that I wouldn't run for mayor

'I love this city, and it's people...and want to serve them.'

unless I had a man like him to help me out," the mayor said.

LAMBERT is a carry-over from the Troutt years as Romulus Township Supervisor in 1955 to 1963.

During that time, the 48-year-old Romulus resident of the past 22 years, was the township ordinance officer.

"We were all young then," Lambert said. "I'd guess you could call us idealists - wanting to furnish the best possible government for the people."

"You wouldn't believe the mess we inherited back then, and how we turned the township around."

"I WAS GLAD to see Terry elected this time, because I had encouraged him to run to get this city moving again," he added. "I could see the same mistakes of the township government developing in the city with the last administration."

Lambert said the major lack he found in government during the city's first administration was slow and oftentimes no service to citizens.

"A person would call with a legitimate complaint, and they'd be shuffled off to the corner," he said. "Nothing would get done."

"I'm handling complaints now which date back one year, sometimes 2 1/2 years."

"THE PEOPLE complain about builders, rubbish removal, contractors not following up on their work, water run-off, pollution, health problems, social security payments, and lots of other things."

"It's a real education in people's needs, but I'm going to tackle these problems...and one by one, get them solved."

Lambert said his reception to Romulus city government has been gratifying to date.

"I've had 10 or 12 people call me and say: 'We're glad you're back, Dan. Maybe we'll get some service now,'" Lambert said.

LAMBERT is married and the father of five children - all attend Romulus schools.

He worked 10 years as the township's ordinance officer until he quit in 1965.

To shape future in care field

Romulus teen gains responsible health post

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Enterprise-Roman

In his 16 years, a Romulus youth who's interested in medicine, has managed to reach a position of responsibility in shaping one area of health care.

John Gregory Roundtree, II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Roundtree of 33950 Ecorse Rd., is chairman of the Mid-western and Southern States Region for a Department of Health Education and Welfare (HEW) sponsored conference on adolescent health care.

Roundtree, a senior at Detroit's Mumford High School, was elected to the position by more than 70 doctors and youths who took part in a four-day conference late in October.

THE CONFERENCE, though funded by HEW, was organized by the Los Angeles Children's Hospital. Roundtree was the only high school-aged youth taking part in the conference, held in Berkshire, Colo., and was the only black youth participant.

"I realized, both because of my age and race, that I had many people depending on me," he explained. "I had to be

'I realized, both because of my age and race, that I had many people depending on me.'

on my toes at all times so I didn't discredit any of those who I was to represent at the conference."

Roundtree, a National Honor Society student at Mumford's pre-medical education program, did such a good job of keeping on his toes that he was appointed chairman of one of the caucuses in the convention.

"OUR GROUP was the only one to pass two resolutions at the convention," he said. "One resolution urged the 'powers that be' in medicine to hear the voice of youth when preparing an adolescent health care system for this country, and the other called for periodic meetings between the youth and the adult participants in the convention to reach a better understanding of our role."

The second resolution was designed to resolve an internal problem at the convention, according to the student.

"We were afraid we'd be nothing but tokens going through the motions of acting to make the conference more credible," Roundtree said. "Until the youth participants met with the others to discuss this problem, we felt as though we weren't being effective."

"As it turned out, we had an important role to play."

TEN YOUTHS from across the nation were invited to take part in the conference which was designed to help shape a new idea in health care aimed at taking care of young adult problems in the nation.

Those youth, selected from a field of 300 interested young people who applied, were to help mirror the adolescent idea toward health care, and to help build practitioners of adolescent health care in setting up a nation wide-type program geared entirely toward solving youth problems.

The youths succeeded to such an extent that Roundtree was given his position of responsibility.

"My main duties will be keeping the constituents from the area I represent informed of the steering committee's plans, and to send in the thoughts and ideas of my constituents to the 'anchor point' of the convention participants to help shape plans for an upcoming convention."

ROUNDTREE said the group will meet once more in April in Washington, to draw up final recommendations for HEW on establishing guidelines for a new health care system.

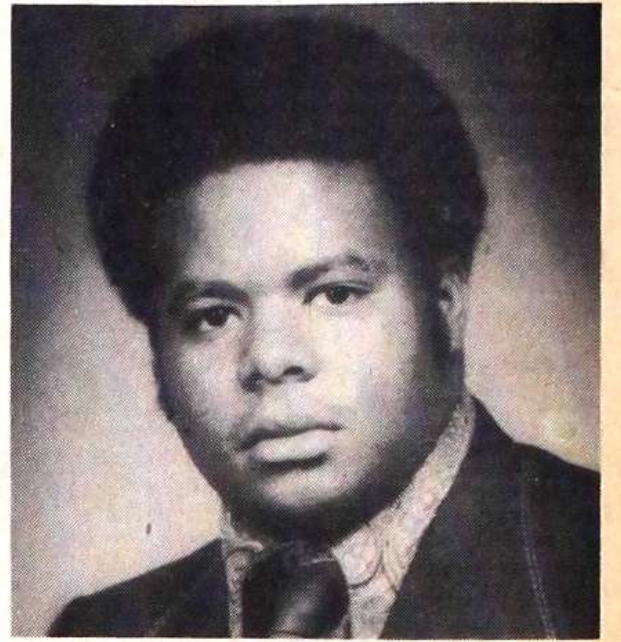

"It will be designed to help the adolescent, the person who tends to think he's too old for a pediatrician for health care, and too young to go to a family doctor for care," Roundtree said. "I envision the final recommendation of the conference calling for care in such fields as drug treatment, youth emotional problems, and youth sex education."

"It may include a recommendation for free health care clinics scattered throughout the nation in an effort to promote better health care for youths."

Roundtree, although only 16-year-old, appears to be qualified for his position in the conference.

HE IS INTERESTED in entering medicine, particularly in the adolescent health care field, and has set his primary goal of receiving his medical education at Harvard University.

At Mumford Roundtree was elected president of the

JOHN ROUNDTREE

Medical Careers Club, and during his three years at the school, the club has been the only one in Michigan to sponsor a "medical careers seminar" for high school-aged youth.

It was at last year's seminar when the Romulus youth became interested in the specialized field of adolescent health care.

At that seminar, he met Dr. Natalia Tanner, M.D., a specialist in the adolescent health care field. She, in turn, recommended that he attend the national convention.

"BEING YOUNG, and at the same time, interested in medicine, I see the glaring need for better health care for young adults," Roundtree said. "If you saw the incidence of drug abuse, emotional problems and even sexual problems a young person today witnesses even at school, you'd feel there was a need for such specialized care."

"Hopefully, my experiences will help shape a form of care which will help those who follow me better cope with the problems of youth than those I see around me today."

Students prepare dinners

A dinner prepared this year by fifth grade students attending the Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville attracted more than 125 parents and children.

The Nov. 20 dinner was prepared under the direction of fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Mona Salisbury.

Served were 60 pounds of turkey, 16 pounds of venison, yams, corn, shrimp, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, cider and pumpkin pie.

"This year we worked on the dinner for two weeks," Mrs. Salisbury said.

Most of the cost of the dinner was assumed by Mrs. Salisbury.

Elementary plans party in Romulus

The Beverly Elementary School in Romulus will host what school officials believe to be a "most unusual" Christmas party for underprivileged youngsters of Romulus.

Sponsored by the Romulus Community Workers, the party will be held from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Dec. 15.

Romulus residents must obey law concerning newly paved roadways

Although improved driving conditions have been created, Romulus' 12 miles of recently paved roads may cause problems for some Romulus residents.

Romulus Police Chief Jacob J. Koch reminds drivers that the recently blacktopped roads in the city can not be used for parking, according to city ordinances.

"Citizens, who in past years had parked and otherwise used these less traveled streets without much regard to the rules of the road, will have to change their attitude," warns the chief. "It was possible in the past that a patrol car was seldom seen on the old roadways. Now, with better streets and more officers, enforcement on these newly paved streets is desirable."

"It is no longer possible to park on the roadway, as in the past."

Chief Koch said the residents of the city would be given warning, but that they should remove their parked vehicles from the road.

Munger assumes duties as Romulus' attorney

Romulus has a new city attorney. He is William Munger, a partner in the firm of Munger and Crumb.

Munger replaces Ellsman, Young and O'Rourke from Detroit, a firm which supplied the city with legal advice for the last three years. "We've worked out a plan which we think will save the city quite a bit of money."

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "The new city attorney, who worked for me as the township attorney, will receive pay on a flat fee basis, and will receive money for court work on a per-day basis."

"WITH THE OTHER firm, we've had to pay an $18,500 per year retainer, plus per hour fees for work."

Troutt said the new arrangement is part of his plan to watch the city's funds closer.

"In the past, the attorney got money for much needless work," he added. "Every Tom, Dick and Harry in the city hall called him for every small item, getting an opinion to receive information which already may be available."

"Now, we have an arrangement where only certain people can call for an opinion, and only after consulting with others to insure that the opinion is needed."

MUNGER WILL be worked into the city's legal scheme of things gradually over at least the next month.

"The other firm submitted a resignation Friday, but it agreed to handle all the pending cases until Munger can be familiarized with them," the mayor said. "I really appreciate their cooperation to insure that the change is smooth."

Troutt said the hiring of a new city attorney may not end his search for more fiscal responsibility for Romulus.

There may be a full-time attorney on staff at some time.

"I WOULDN'T say it'll happen tomorrow," the mayor said. "But possibly in the next budget, we'll try to include a salary of $18,000 to hire a young man just graduating from law school to handle the city's routine legal chores and to establish a legal library."

"He'll handle ordinance cases in court, and advise us in areas where he is competent, but if there's a need for a better attorney for a more serious matter, we'll go ahead and hire one."

Although he has announced no formal course of action, Troutt may have quite a bit of legal work on his hands during the ensuing year.

The mayor, prior to his election Nov. 6, had promised to fight Wayne County for payments on the water and sewer systems absorbed from the city during the expansion of the Wayne County Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

AT THE SAME time, he's considering taking legal steps to improve code enforcement along the Wayne Road corridor south of Van Born Road to Ecorse Road near the city's urban renewal area.

"We'll be putting our new attorney to good use," Troutt said. "And, besides saving money for us, I'm positive he will help Romulus grow and get what it deserves in the future."

Troutt eyes pay raises in city's next budget

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt intends to look at pay scales for the present city administrators to see if salaries can be upgraded in the next budget.

"It's a shame that some of our administrators have to be making less than a plumber," he said. "If the man does better work at his job, he should be paid for it. And if he's only worth that much, then we ought to get rid of him."

"But, I believe you only get the amount of service you pay for, so I'm in favor of raising pay scales."

SALARIES IN Romulus range from $14,243 for the director of the department of public works and the chief building inspector, to $10,023 for the director of recreation, according to the 1973-74 city budget.

The budget includes a projected expenditure of $32,000 for two mechanics for the department of public works.

Troutt said the scales are degrading to public servants.

"The voters won't complain about it (raising salaries)," he added. "They realize we need qualified people in the government to handle their needs, and the most competent people are those who demand higher pay."

AT THE SAME time, Troutt is looking to upgrade the salaries of non-union employees, a crusade begun by Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar last summer.

"We have the executive secretaries — to the mayor, clerk and treasurer — and the deputy clerk making less than secretaries on the third level of the union scale," Troutt said. "It's injustice to these people who have to work without union protection, and face the possibility of losing their job every two years with the election."

"I'm surprised we have such fine quality people on staff at such low salaries."

Troutt said he will be unable to upgrade the salaries prior to the time of drawing the 1974-75 budget because of limited funds.

"But, at that time, I'll fight my hardest to see that those who deserve the best pay draw it," he said. "It's the only way to insure that we have good people on the staff at all times."

Efforts to improve the situation of citizens in Sumpter Township is becoming frustrating, according to Sumpter Water Commissioner David Garlick. State and federal legislators on one hand have given no positive hope that financial aid will be available to help Sumpter insure the health of its citizens.

Task force finds Romulus election vote tally off by 1

A 14-person county task force scoured Romulus' election returns from the Nov. 6 general election and turned up a one-vote discrepancy in the city's final tallies—not enough to change the results.

Three teams of inspectors and the five man Wayne County Board of Canvassers checked the results of the Nov. 6 general election to test Romulus Councilman Fred Junior Block's five-vote victory over Robert Martin and 10-vote victory over Richard Butz in the council run-off.

Both Butz and Martin picked up one vote, but Block remained in his council seat for a second consecutive term.

"THE RESULTS are a tribute to the fine workmanship and conscientiousness of our own election workers and canvassers," Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar said. "These people have had their results tested in the last two elections, and have been found highly accurate in both instances." Recounts requested in the August primary and the November general election upheld the final standings in council elections. But the city got socked with quite a bill for being upheld, Folmar said.

"The cost of the August recount was $780," explained the clerk, who had received an $85 fee from the unsuccessful candidates in the election for the recount.

"I guess every man has a right to a recount, especially when his opponent wins by five votes," the clerk said. "But, the costs are killing the city."

ALTHOUGH petitioning candidates are required to post a $5 per precinct fee for recounts, the city is compelled to pay the teams of elections inspectors for lost wages, mileage and election supplies for a day-long recount.

"You'd think either these candidates would get the idea that our workers do a good accurate conscientious job in these elections," Folmar said. "Or someone would come up with an idea to help defray these costs."

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED—While it's not the original Romulus Elementary School, the "spirit" of the school still remains 50 years after its founding—and the fact was duly observed at an open house held Sunday at the school with some 150 people signing the guest book. Among them were former students, former teachers that had formed the staff through the years and officialdom also was represented. The present school replaced a two-story brick structure that faced Bibbins Street. Originally a high school for a number of years, the school became an elementary school when the classes "outgrew" the facilities.

Elementary marks 50th year

School's days reach a golden total

Old friends and school "family" members called at Romulus Elementary School Sunday to pay their respects on the occasion of the official golden anniversary. Some 150 guests were present to reminisce over school days.

Oldtimers could recall reading and hearing about the six-classroom building that was forerunner of the present structure.

Among the "rememberers" was that the original building was two-story brick and it faced Olive Street.

THEY ALSO recalled that in 1921 the building was modernized with the installation of chemical toilets built on the back of the building interfering with construction of the "new" building.

Romulus School was a high school for a number of years, then was discontinued when local students went on to neighboring high schools after completing the eighth grade. Larger enrollments and more complete programs were given as the reason for leaving the school.

In anticipation of a new high school building, high school classes were once again resumed and two seniors graduated in 1926. They were Elinore Petrasky Kouba and Marion Hasselbach Stears. In 1927 there were four graduates and in 1928 there were eight.

By this time, a new high school had been built and Romulus School once again became an elementary school.

THE ANNIVERSARY celebration followed a golden theme in keeping with the 50 years it marked. Floral arrangements of golden mums and metallic gold foliage was created especially for the occasion by Mach's Flowers of Romulus and centered a tea table presided over by a former Romulus student, Gloria Chandler, who Romulus Board of Education. Christensen were in charge of the punch bowl. Mary Ann Christensen was general chairman of the celebration, assisted by members of the PTA executive board. Margaret Bird, current principal, said the celebration has served as incentive for concentration on community history emphasized in Romulus Elementary School classrooms this month.

In Romulus

Rec program has fast start despite course openings

Romulus' school-season recreation program is off to a fast start, but there still are openings in some recreation programs.

Primarily the women's programs and the girl's after-school recreation programs have openings for more participants.

Women are welcome to join the recreation department's new "slim and trim" exercise program held at the Romulus City Hall Community Room from 1:20 p.m. to 3:40 p.m. Wednesdays.

Women participating in the program have the chance to exercise off some unwanted pounds under the direction of a skilled gymnast.

At the same time, women, and men, are welcome to sign up for the department's knitting and crocheting class scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursdays at the city hall.

Both programs are offered free of charge.

However, participants in the knitting and crocheting programs must pay for their own materials.

Younger ladies in grades four to seven are welcome to participate in the regular "after school" recreation programs held weekdays at all the Romulus elementary schools.

Programs are open one-day per week from 3:30 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. at each of the city's eight elementary schools.

Girls' program has to exercise reserved for the boys during gym classes in school hours.

Fuel crisis hits schools

The nation's fuel crisis has brought about a reduction in delivery of the Van Buren Public School District's December gasoline supply. A gasoline shortage will continue in January and February and "may get worse," according to school officials.

Legislators 'grandstand' over Bowl vote

By BOB BERG
Enterprise - Roman Bureau Chief

LANSING — Ethics legislation lays dormant in Senate committees and the burgeoning energy crisis calls for quick legislative action.

With that background, what was the major crisis the Legislature debated when it came back from Thanksgiving? It was the Rose Bowl.

There is no way on God's green earth the Michigan Legislature can do anything about who represents the Big 10 Conference in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1. But that didn't keep the lawmakers from making a grandstand play on the issue.

TWO OF THEM even sent a letter to Conference Commissioner Wayne Duke, who only counted the votes of the athletic directors, demanding the answer to a series of loaded questions designed to prove what a travesty was the decision to send Ohio State rather than the University of Michigan.

It would have been understandable if things had stopped there. After all, legislators love to hear themselves talk, whether the talk accomplishes anything or not.

But there was a more insidious train of thought surfacing in the debate and the backroom conversations. There was talk of "getting" Michigan State.

MSU ATHLETIC Director Burt Smith, a Michigan alumnus, apparently cast one of the votes to send Ohio State to the Rose Bowl. The Michigan State football staff felt Ohio State played a much stronger game against them than did Michigan and Smith apparently took that into consideration in his vote.

So some lawmakers were talking about cutting back on MSU's appropriation next year or perhaps denying the school the law school it has been asking to have established.

If it made no sense in the eyes of Michigan partisans to send Ohio State to the Rose Bowl, it can only be idiocy to cut back on the MSU appropriation because of its vote. Bo Schembechler said after the decision he would have a tough time explaining it to his kids. But that ought to be easy compared to explaining to a Michigan State student why the Legislature cut back on his or her education because of a football game.

ONE OF THE CONTINUING rationals for organized sports programs in public schools is supposed to be that sports competition, win or lose, builds character in the young men and women participating. The thrill of competition and learning to work as a team are supposed to be reason enough to participate. It isn't whether you win or lose, but how you play the game.

College football long ago became big business on the major college level. But still there is supposed to be a difference between it and professional football. It is supposed to have an enthusiasm and esprit not found among the professionals. After all, it is played by students. After all, it is still only a game.

TO USE A SPORTS decision, no matter how wrong it may have been in the eyes of some, as the basis for cutting a budget is purely vindictive and totally violative of the spirit which is supposed to typify college sports.

But then, it probably isn't a question of whether sports builds character. It is more a question in the Legislature of whether politics builds character. There isn't much doubt about the answer to that one.

Cutting MSU's budget is purely vindictive...

Return the favor

Business community funds civic growth

If you're a typical resident of Western Wayne County, you note with pride the individuality of suburban living in a sprawling metropolitan zone some call creeping megalopolis.

Then again, you only might be interested in the community you happen to reside in and the school district your children use to further their educational knowhow.

And as a taxpaying home owner, you beef about the taxing situation - with little hope for relief in the troubled days ahead.

But a check at the city assessor's office will tell you that the major portion of your community's tax-supporting revenue emanates from local business and industry.

By pinch finally hitting home every Sunday closings of this is the time to begin planning for the future. Van Buren, Huron or Sumpter townships.

At the same time, you'll take note of expense savings...less wear and tear on the car, saving on gasoline...and sensing you've done your part to conserve on fuel and energy.

In addition to paying the freight to defray municipal and school operating expenditures, members of the business community also do their share for civic improvement.

They support local Chambers of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau and other consumer protection agencies because they have a stake in the community in which they do business.

During the gasoline pinch, start supporting the local businesses who must continue to pay the tax freight even though they too suffer from the fuel and energy crisis.

And while shopping locally, you'll find it's good to do business with a local merchant.

A monument to all who died unknown

The unknown soldier... 'known but to God'

The traditional focal point of Arlington National Cemetery is the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

President John F. Kennedy and his brother Robert are buried nearby and their graves attract millions of people every year, but few visit the cemetery without viewing the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

At the top of gentle, green, sloping lawn 300 feet in length and bordered by clipped beech hedges, above a broad flight of granite steps, on a formal terrace overlooking the Nation's Capital, the Tomb stands in solemn grandeur, framed against the background of the principal facade of the Memorial Amphitheater. Clumps of boxwood and groves of cedar add to the air of dignity. From the steps of the Amphitheater, looking out across the Tomb, the sweeping panorama of the Nation's Capital is unbroken.

THE TOMB OF the Unknown Soldier is a monument to all Americans who die unknown. For 37 years it was the final resting place of an unknown soldier who gave his life in World War I, but in 1958 two more bodies were added to the Shrine, one to represent the unknown dead of World War II, the other to represent the unknown dead of the Korean Conflict.

Great care has been taken in all three cases to make certain that no one could ever determine even so much as where the unknown bodies were found on the battlefield. The purpose of the Tomb, in addition to providing a memorial to all who have died unknown, was to provide a spot where all could come and feel that this could have been their son, husband, brother, father, loved one, or comrade in arms. Because of this, even the cemetery of origin and theater of war has been painstakingly erased and is unknown to anyone. The methods used in the selection insured complete secrecy.

UNDER AUTHORITY of Public Resolution 67 of the 66th Congress, approved March 4, 1921, the bodies of four unknown American soldiers, one from each of the American cemeteries in France, Aisne-Marne, Meuse-Argonne, Somme, and St. Mihiel, were exhumed and carried to Chalons-sur-Marne, where the selection was to be made. There, one last exhaustive attempt was made to establish the identities of the bodies. Four other bodies were positively unidentifiable, all papers and records concerning the four were burned. Included in this information was data on the location and circumstances of the site where the body had been found on the battlefield, records from the attempts at identification, any clues that had been run down unsuccessfully, and the cemetery of origin. After these records were burned, there was not one single scrap of information to tell even the most minor detail about any of the bodies. The completeness of their anonymity was assured beyond all doubt.

The Unknown Soldier was selected Oct. 24, 1921. The four caskets, each absolutely identical, each covered with an American flag, were placed on catafalques at the Hotel de Ville. The night before, an honor guard of French and American soldiers entered the hotel and rearranged the coffins, placing them in positions different from those they had occupied.

FOUR DAYS EARLIER, six soldiers had been picked at random from U.S. Army Forces occupying Coblenz and ordered to Chalons-sur-Marne. The men were interviewed by the commanding general of the area and were told that one of them would be selected to choose the Unknown Soldier from the four who lay in state.

At 10 a. m. he entered the Hotel de Ville. An officer handed him a spray of white roses. He was told to place the flowers on one of the caskets. He was told to take as much time as he wanted. Sergeant Younger entered the room, circled the caskets three times, studying them carefully, then stopped and placed the spray of roses on the casket that was third from the left, and thus selected the casket of the man who would be known forever as the Unknown Soldier. Six non-commissioned officers carried the casket from the room. The remaining three unknowns were immediately returned to the

The last person to approach the grave was an American Indian, Chief Plenty Coos of the Crow Nation...

On the morning of Oct. 24, an announcement was made, "By order of the commanding general, Sergeant Edward F. Younger will report to the Hotel de Ville for the purpose of selecting the Unknown Soldier." Sergeant Younger had seen service in France during the war, had risen from private to sergeant, and had been wounded twice.

Meuse-Argonne Cemetery and buried in graves numbered 1, 2, and 3 in Row 1, Block G.

THEN THE CASKET of the Unknown Soldier began its journey to Le Havre where it was to be placed aboard the U.S. Cruiser Olympia. Dewey's flagship at Manila Bay, for the voyage home. The body was borne through the streets to the railroad station, where the funeral train waited with its special car. Thousands came to bid farewell to this unknown man who had died in action against their enemy. The train slowly pulled out of the station and chugged steadily through the countryside toward Paris. Frenchmen lined the tracks to watch the train pass. That night the body rested in the Gare Batignolles, guarded by French infantrymen. The next morning the body started its journey down the Seine to the port city of Le Havre, where the Olympia waited.

Here the casket was transferred to the traditional gun carriage. A French Army band played and the children of the city passed the gun carriage heaping flowers on the caisson. Then the procession headed toward the waterfront where the Olympia was moored. Her flags were at half mast and her crew was turned out at attention as the procession came alongside.

FOURTEEN DAYS LATER she passed between Cape Charles and Cape Henry, sailed up the Chesapeake, up the Potomac, past George Washington's Mt. Vernon, and tied up at the Washington Navy Yard at 4 p. m., Nov. 9. From there, with deeply moving ceremony, the body was moved to the rotunda of the Capitol, placed on the catafalque that had held the body of Abraham Lincoln and was later to hold the body of John F. Kennedy, and here the hero lay in state until Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1921, the date set for the final ceremonies.

The huge cortege left the Capitol in the bright, clear morning air Nov. 11. It was led by infantry, cavalry and artillery.

Following the gun carriage drawn by horses came President Warren G. Harding, Vice President Calvin Coolidge, Chief Justice William Howard Taft, former President Woodrow Wilson.

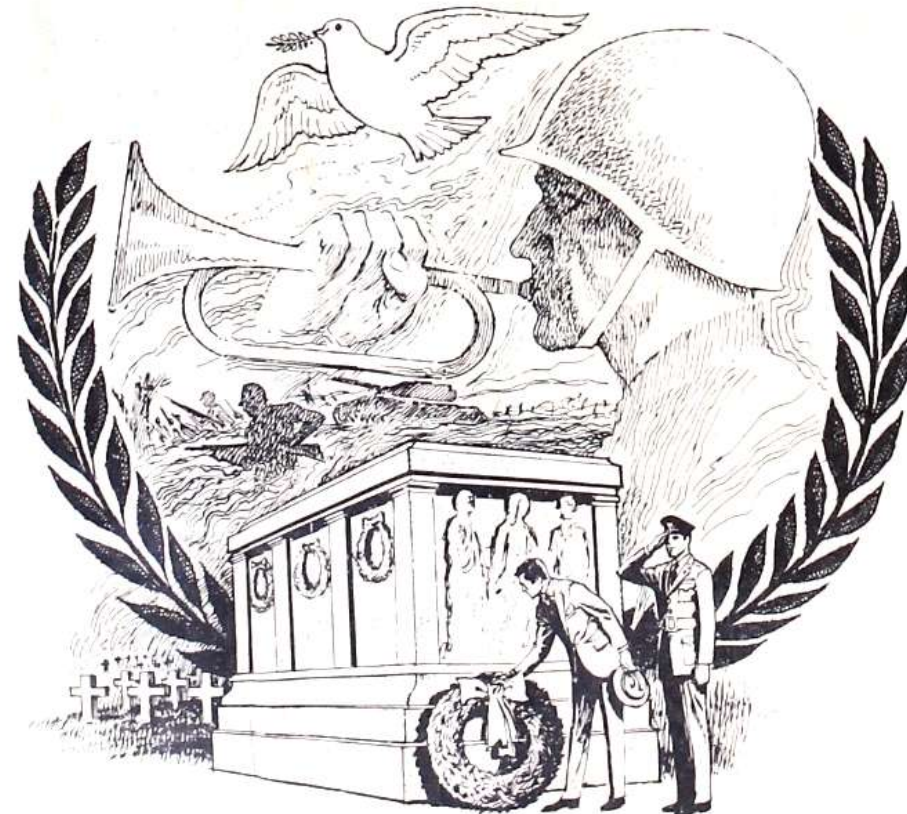

At the cemetery, in the newly built amphitheater, the group gathered to hear the final tributes. Ambassadors from nearly all friendly nations were there.

The Marine Band played the National Anthem.

Then Harding stepped to the casket and decorated the Unknown Soldier with the Congressional Medal of Honor and the distinguished Service Cross, the nation's highest combat honors. Immediately following, the Unknown Soldier was decorated by foreign governments.

THE LAST PERSON to approach the grave was an American Indian, Chief Plenty Coos of the Crow Nation representing his people who had fought and died in the World War. He placed a war bonnet and a coupstick on the grave.

The present tomb was erected in 1931. It was placed over an older and uncompleted cenotaph which had served for ten years. This was a simple slab of white marble, flat and without decoration. The present tomb was designed by Thomas Hudson Jones, a sculptor, and Lorimer Rich, an architect.

Raps 'road rally'

To the Editor: As I am trying to do my part to conserve energy and have curtailed unnecessary driving to save on gasoline, it upsets me to hear that others are wasting the precious energy supply that is dwindling fast.

And it bothers me even more to hear that an organization sponsors a program to raise funds and in the process wastes gasoline.

When others in Belleville and across the country are trying to do their part to conserve fuel, The Number, Belleville's crisis center, sponsored an automobile road rally and encouraged people to waste 70 miles worth of gasoline...for a trophy.

As far as I'm concerned, the $4 per car entry fee The Number charged for the road rally simply doesn't make wasting precious gasoline worth it.

The Number seems to be a worthwhile center. I would condone most any means of soliciting support for the organization. But let's all pitch in and help our country through this energy crisis period. And please—no more gasoline wasting road rallies.

'A great little town'

To the Editor: We are lucky indeed, that we're able to live where the pressures and troubles are few. We can add years of life, away from the strife. And enjoy doing things that we do. Where friendship is common, no falseness is known. Right from the Mayor on down, A handshake and smile make living worthwhile. In Belleville, A GREAT LITTLE TOWN.

We don't have the wealth that some big cities have. But our worth is not measured in gold; It's the friends that you meet as you walk down the street; True affection is grand to behold. Where the neighbors are true, and they care about you, You can bet they will not let you down. We are privileged indeed that we're able to live "In Belleville, A GREAT LITTLE TOWN."

To the Editor: The community has spoken and the City of Romulus has a new mayor. May he serve his citizenry with the respect and undeniable honesty of Mayor Hyle Carmichael.

For one of those so privileged to associate and campaign with Mayor Carmichael, I wish him and the community he served so well, the very best of luck.

'Bravo Mr. President'

To the Editor: I am getting sick and tired of reading in your newspaper, and other newspapers, about Watergate and quoting questionable characters who attack the president of my country. I thought the place to try people, the president included, was in the courts?

And how many newspapers have even bothered to give credit to President Nixon for getting the Arabs and Israelis to agree to a cease-fire. As the mother of two military age boys, I say bravo Mr. Nixon for getting the cease-fire in the Middle East.

A.M.J.

Gladys will watch

To the Editor: I read in last week's newspaper that the new mayor of Romulus (Terry Troutt) blames the fuel shortage on the politicians in Washington.

While I support the mayor's stand to help conserve on fuel, in response to the President's energy message, I should warn the mayor he too is a politician.

If there is a blame, it should be aimed against the Ralph Nader types. These are the people who hold up new energy plants, oil drilling, etc. And they do so in the name of saving the environment, and now we all suffer.

By the way, I'll be watching the mayor to see if he fulfills his promises. But that's politics, so I won't be surprised if he fails to deliver.

Romulus Police Chief urges safety in traffic

This is the time of year when officials responsible for street care and traffic movement start to get up-tight because, from experience, they know they can expect the worst.

At least this is the contention of Romulus Chief of Police Jacob J. Koch who said winter's killer storms are ahead of us.

"The basic problem, is to be sure traffic tie-ups don't clog streets and choke off vital emergency services," he said.

The chief feels that now is a good time to adopt a positive mental attitude toward winter driving problems. He urged area drivers to heed the annual recommendations of the National Safety Council's

Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. These include:

—Guard against over-confidence. Don't become too sure about your winter driving skills. Don't neglect common sense practices.

—Reduce your speed; increase following distances; use extra caution at intersections; anticipate situations that call for reduced speed; anticipate all turning movements in advance; use extra care in signalling drivers who seem to be following too closely.

—Don't let winter weather deprive you of your ability to keep moving, to see clearly, and to stop safely. Make sure defrosters, windshield wipers and wiper blades are capable of doing heavy duty in cleaning slush or wet snow off your windshield. Replenish non-freeze fluid in your windshield washers. Check brakes and the tire treads which transmit traction and braking power to the road surface where it does its work.

—On packed snow or ice, maintain driving momentum to keep from "getting stuck."

A good set of snow tires will help, but for severe conditions, have a set of reinforced tire chains. They may be the only answer. It's better to have them with you than to be sitting at the head of a line of stalled traffic wishing you did.

—Don't overlook the possibility of being caught in a traffic tie-up caused by someone else.

Laurie-Doty nuptials solemnized recently

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was the setting for the November wedding of Sandra E. Doty and Richard J. Laurie, both of Belleville.

The Rev. Jay Arthur officiated the evening double ring ceremony uniting in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Doty of 19320 Renton Rd., Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs.

Claytons welcome 'Jeremy'

Former Belleville residents, the Keith Claytons of Roscommon, chose the name "Jeremy Rowe" for the new son born to them Oct. 22 at Mercy Hospital in Graying.

The baby boy, first child for the couple, weighed 6 lbs., 12 1/2 oz.

Mrs. Clayton is the former Gale Berger, daughter of "Marty" and Georgia Potts, formerly of Liberty Street, Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clayton of Borgman Road, Belleville, are Jeremy's paternal grandparents.

Please note

For newly-engaged couples and for prospective brides, we have printed forms to fill out to announce your betrothal and to enable us to write your wedding story completely and correctly.

If you have any doubt as to what information we require to do a story, these forms list all the pertinent questions.

To obtain either an engagement or bridal questionnaire, simply stop by our office, 405 Main St., Belleville, or request one via telephone 697-9191. We'll be happy to mail either form.

We ask that you also bring or send in pictures to accompany either story. There is no charge for this service.

John R. Laurie of 17876 Martinsville Rd., Belleville. White gladiolus and red and pink carnations decorated the altar for the ceremony witnessed by some 200 guests. Emily Jurawicz was guitarist for the ceremony, and Jim Siterlet sang.

ESCORTED TO the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin accented with lace at the round neckline, on the sleeves and down the front panel of the gown. The graceful skirt was complemented by a detachable chapel train, also trimmed in lace. The gown was created by the mother of the bride.

The bride's veil of ivory illusion was secured by a profile cape of satin overlaid with lace and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations with deep red roses and baby's breath. As a jewelry touch, the bride wore a miniature gold cross and chain belonging to her grandmother.

A friend of high school days, Mrs. Linda Peterson of Belleville, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a gown styled along the same lines as that of the bride, hers made with a lace-trimmed bodice in an ivory shade over a skirt of deep red. A bow headpiece securing red veiling and in lieu of a bouquet, three roses, one red and two pink completed her ensemble.

Two of the roses were presented to the mothers of the bridal couple at the close of the ceremony.

BRIDESMAIDS were Mrs. Arlene Johnson of Dearborn, Miss Lynn Laurie, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Shawn Kouba of Belleville, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Gowns of deep red trimmed in ivory lace were worn by the bridesmaids, who also had veiled headpieces to match their gowns. Each carried a single red rose in lieu of a bouquet.

The bridegroom asked Phil Johnson of Dearborn, a friend since high school days, to carry out the duties of best man. Groomsman were Ron Jurawicz of Ypsilanti, and Scott Laurie of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Doty wore a formal gown in light blue, matching accessories, and a matching corsage, while Mrs. Laurie chose a costume in pink, matching accessories and a corsage in the same shade.

APPROXIMATELY 225 guests assembled at the VFW Hall in Westland for the reception honoring the newlyweds.

The rehearsal dinner hosted by the parents of the bridegroom was held at the Red Wagon in Belleville.

After the reception, the new Mr. and Mrs. Laurie left by car on a month-long honeymoon trip that is taking them to Florida and California.

The new Mrs. Laurie is a 1970 graduate of Belleville High School and is a secretary at the University of Michigan. Her bridegroom graduated in 1966, served two years with the U.S. Army and is employed at Draw-Tite in Belleville.

The Lauries will make their home on Texile Road on their return from their honeymoon.

Bellevillite back from West

By MRS. JOSEPH SPRING 699-4021

After having spent eight weeks in the western states, Mrs. B.P. Hopson of Belleville Road returned home on Tuesday of last week. While there she visited several relatives, a sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Cadettes map busy program

Cadette Girl Scouts of Troop 684 of New Boston have been really active since organizing in September. They have:

Marched in the Huron High Homecoming Parade; survived a bike hike of 20 miles to Camp Wargo where they camped overnight and biked home in the rain. Gave two bike sales to cover the cost of horseback riding outing; helped residents of the Van Buren Convalescent Home play bingo, and also furnished prizes.

On Dec. 20, the Cadettes plan to entertain the residents of the convalescent home with a Christmas program and give gifts to their nine "adopted grandparents." They are Sophie Klincher, Mary Hull, Warren Brewer, John Keeney, Bill Hollister, Bill Williams and Raleigh Edwards.

The girls are also planning an overnight at Greenfield Village, and before that, will help their Scout Cluster with the Senior Citizens Christmas Party on Dec. 18.

Mrs. Edward Wilk is leader of the Cadettes, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Verner.

Donegan-Strand vows said at autumn rite

Pamela Strand of Belleville, became the bride of Marshall Donegan of Ann Arbor at a Nov. 10 ceremony held at the Free Methodist Church on Packard Road in Ypsilanti.

One hundred fifty guests were present at the late afternoon ceremony officiated by the Rev. David Crane before an altar decorated with arrangements of carnations, chrysanthemums and roses in Fall shades.

Music for the ceremony included the "Trumpeter's Wedding March," and the traditional bridal procession.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strand of 48490 Edgar, Belleville. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Donegan of Bridgeport, N.Y.

For the double ring ceremony, the bride chose a traditional gown of white, brushed satin, made with notched neckline trimmed pearl-accented lace. Lace also trimmed the wrist of the sleeves that were fitted to the elbow, then ended in a puffed effect with wide cuffs. The draped skirt ended in a chapel train. Scalloped lace edged the bride's veil that overlapped the train of her gown, and she carried baby carnations and roses with baby's breath and greenery.

In the role of maid of honor, Claire Steinman of Belleville, wore an empire gown in an apricot shade trimmed with white lace. Her floral headpiece was composed of a salmon pink rose with two pink carnations and greenery, and her bouquet was of salmon roses and orange carnations with touches of brown and gold.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kate Donegan of Mallory, N.Y., sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mrs. Donna Strand of Syracuse, N.Y., sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Rosemarie Donegan of Bridgeport, N.Y., sister of the bridegroom.

GOWNS MADE the same as that of the maid of honor, but in a deep orange shade, were worn by two of the bridesmaids, the Mesdames Donegan and Strand, while Miss Rosemarie Donegan wore a gown in mango, made by the bride. A frock in the mango shade was also worn by the six-year-old flower girl.

Michael Strand, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Groomsman were Richard Donegan of Mallory, N.Y., brother of the bridegroom, and Daniel Strand of Belleville, another brother of the bride.

Mrs. Strand chose a formal gown in blue, matching accessories and a double cymbidium orchid corsage for the ceremony, while Mrs. Donegan chose a gown made with a print bodice over a purple skirt. She also had a double cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception attended by 150 guests was held at the UAW Local Hall in Belleville in honor of the newlyweds. Later they left for a week's honeymoon in Toronto, Ontario.

The new Mrs. Donegan is a 1973 graduate of Belleville High School and is employed in the personnel section of Hydra-Matic division of General Motors in Ypsilanti. Her husband is a 1970 graduate of Chittanooga High School in New York and is employed at Butcher and Willits in Ann Arbor.

The Donegans are making their home in Ann Arbor.

Gift-buying?

Put emphasis on usefulness

Looking for gift ideas for the holidays? With an eye toward the energy shortage, put your emphasis on usefulness, urges Anne Field, extension family resource management specialist at Michigan State University.

If a gift for the whole family is on your shopping list, why not spend your money on a layer of insulation for the house if it's needed, she suggests. It will help give your family a warm feeling that will last all winter and for years to come. And there's a bonus in the form of lower heat bills and energy saved.

Or how about a microwave oven? For cooking many foods, a microwave oven represents a substantial energy savings over a conventional oven.

THE FRIEND or relative who does not have to cook for a large family might appreciate a broiler oven or an electric frying pan, Dr. Field suggests. Here again, it is more economical to use the small appliance than to heat up a large oven for a small quantity of food.

Avoid giving appliances and other energy-eating gadgets that might not be used or needed, the specialist cautions. Giving a gadget for the sake of something to give represents a waste of money as well as the energy that went into producing the product.

Help save scarce heating energy by making sure all your family members can be as cozy as possible despite a lowered thermostat — put sweaters under the Christmas tree this year.

The gift that will probably be most appreciated is the gift of yourself.

"TAKE THE time to do something for someone," D4. Field says. "Restore a favorite piece of furniture that someone treasures. Make new clothes out of fabric scraps for a cherished doll. Help Aunt Betty clean her basement or put up Grandma's storm windows."

Look for ways to recycle items to someone who can make something useful out of them, she suggests. Save empty jars for someone who does home canning or fabric scraps for someone who quilts. Keep bits of cloth, leftover yarn, rickrack, lace, old greeting cards, wrapping paper, bits of ribbon and other "beautiful junk" for a rainy day crafts project for the children.

"Make this an energy-conscious Christmas," Dr. Field urges. "Chose gifts that will help your family and others be energy savers."

Try tasty holiday cookies

The elves would stop work, the sugar plum fairies end their dance and Father Time slow the march of minutes if they could taste these delicious toasted wheat germ cookies. Holiday entertaining calls for your most creative baking. To help you on your way here are four decorative cookies made with four distinctively different doughs resplendent with toasted wheat germ.

As far as ingredients go, Kretschmer's vacuum-packed wheat germ has been around quite some time. Only now it is coming into its own as a versatile, always available, always ready to use ingredient.

Each of these cookies has a taste and texture all its own. Present them all on a colorfully arranged tray or separately for rave reviews from family and friends.

NEAPOLITAN WHEAT GERM COOKIES

Layer three flavors and colors of rich wheat germ dough - chocolate, red cherries and green cherries - for attractive cookies.

- 1 cup butter, softened
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 cup regular toasted wheat germ
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup candied red cherries, chopped
- 6 drops red food color
- 1/2 cup semi sweet chocolate pieces, melted
- 1/4 cup candied green cherries, chopped
- 6 drops green food color

Beat butter with sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg, vanilla and orange peel. Stir in flour mixed with wheat germ, baking powder and salt. Divide dough into thirds. Combine cherries and red food color with first portion, melted chocolate with second portion and green cherries and green food color with third portion. Line bottom of 9x5x3-inch loaf pan with foil. Place pink dough in pan and pat gently to fit. Repeat with layers of chocolate and green dough. Cover. Refrigerate 3 hours or longer. Invert pan and remove foil. Slice loaf crosswise with sharp knife into 30 slices. Cut each slice into thirds. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes or until edges of cookies turn light golden. Let stand 1 or 2 minutes on baking sheet. Remove cookies and cool on rack. Makes 7 1/2 dozen cookies.

Don't delay! Our new low-cost home insulation program can cut gas heating costs up to 17%.

In just a few short weeks, many of our customers around Michigan have taken advantage of a new program to hold down heating bills and help save Natural Gas, too. The program was developed at the direction of the Michigan Public Service Commission, which is seeking ways to conserve Natural Gas and hold down utility bills by the wise use of energy.

The heart of the program is installing ceiling insulation in your home. It's quick. Economical. Easy. In fact, a recent government study found "the most significant opportunity" for homeowners to conserve energy was through "improved insulation of houses," [which] "would benefit the individual homeowner by reducing winter fuel bills, summer air conditioning bills, size and capital cost of heating and cooling equipment, and air pollution." The Michigan Public Service Commission has found that many homeowners could achieve fuel savings of as much as 17% by having six inches of insulation in their attics. Naturally, results for your home may vary due to architectural differences and your heating habits.

To help you realize fuel savings in your home, we've designed an easy home insulation program. Here's how it works.

First, you can install the ceiling insulation yourself. It's a simple do-it-yourself project—and the most economical way to put in ceiling insulation. Many customers can accomplish the task for less than $100.

To assist you in the project, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company has even prepared a helpful booklet that shows just how to do the job.

Secondly, you can call a contractor of your choice and arrange to have the work done. Or call Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. We'll have one of our participating insulation subcontractors install it for you, which can also be easy on your budget. Many houses with up to 1,000 square feet in the ceiling area can be insulated for less than $200. And, there's a payment plan to suit most every customer. You can pay cash. Or, you can pay just 20% down at the time the contract is signed—then simply have the remaining cost included in your gas bill. Pay it off on your next three gas bills with no interest or carrying charges.

Finally, you can pay for the job over an extended period at an interest rate of 1% monthly on the unpaid balance. (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%.)

Whichever you choose, you'll be taking an important step toward holding down your heating bills. And cutting down on the use of Natural Gas. Why not plan on doing it now. Contact us today for additional details. And if you're a do-it-yourselfer, ask for our free booklet.

Faust bill seeks change in Civil Service policy

Legislation to allow public employees to engage in political activities after working hours has been introduced this week in the Michigan legislature by Sen. William Faust (D-Westland).

"Public employees should have the same rights as every other citizen in this state," Faust said. "Yet Civil Service regulations prohibit public employees from engaging in one of our fundamental rights—the right to full participation in the political process."

"Under these rules a public employee can be fired or disciplined severely if he becomes a member of a political party or becomes politically involved in any other way."

FAUST'S BILL specifically allows public employees to:

—join a political party;

—become a delegate to a state, district or county political convention;

—become a candidate for county, city, village, township, school district or other local elective officer without

Tab time for dogs

It's about the time of the year when dog owners in Romulus should be thinking about putting new tabs on their pets.

Dog licenses for 1974 will be available at the Romulus Treasurer's office starting Dec. 3.

Males and unsexed dogs can be licensed for $2.50 and female dogs can be licensed for $2.50 until March 1, 1974.

Tags will then cost $1 more for each after that date.

first obtaining a leave of absence;

—engage in other political activities on behalf of a candidate or issue in connection with partisan or nonpartisan elections.

THE BILL emphasized that employees are allowed to participate in such activities "only outside of the regular hours of work."

"To fail to allow public employees to practice such basic rights it to treat them like second class citizens," Faust said. "I think it is especially important that the legislature insist on these rights for public employees at this time, in view of the recent emphasis on great public participation in the political process."

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

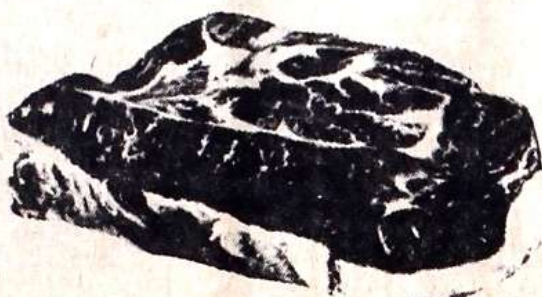

When you think about it, there is nothing mysterious or complex about "human nature." Human nature is nothing other than human habits. Human nature is therefore changeable the same as human habits are changeable. Surprisingly, human nature is often mentioned to excuse personal offenses and misbehavior. It is equally surprising that the inherent goodness in man is seldom mentioned as human nature.

The human habits of love, tolerance and respect are certainly as much of human nature as the faults of greed, distrust and other obnoxious vices. Actually, when you look around, you see far more love, trust and selflessness than hate, distrust and selfishness. In these troublesome times in human relations, it still is true that goodness exceeds the bad. And more importantly, it is good to stress that bad habits can be changed to good habits if a will to do so exists. In short, "human nature" can be changed. Just change "human habits."

Walt Disney movies highlight Romulus children's film series

Romulus children have the opportunity to enjoy a real "Saturday afternoon at the movies," just as their parents did in the olden days.

Courtesy of the Romulus Jaycees and the Romulus Recreation Commission, a 24-week series of Walt Disney films will start Jan. 5 in the Romulus High School auditorium.

Organized by the Jaycees, the children's movie program is geared to children in the kindergarten through fifth grades of Romulus eight public elementary schools and one parochial elementary school.

TICKETS WILL be distributed by the local PTA groups. However, no ticket will be sold unless the child purchasing them has a signed permission slip from his parent. Prices will range between 35 cents and 50 cents per child.

EMU concertmaster is former Jr. Miss

"Because the title 'concertmaster' is the traditional professional name for the job, I am proud to be called concertmaster of the Eastern Michigan University-Symphony Orchestra," says Pamela Elliott, a 19-year-old sophomore.

"There is the long tradition of the leader of the first violins and the actual assistant to the conductor of an orchestra being given that title so I don't mind at all," she added.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elliott, 45271 Robson Dr., Belleville, Pam has studied violin since fourth grade. Her teacher, since ninth grade, has been Maurice W. Riley, professor in the Eastern Michigan University Music Department.

Before her graduation from Belleville High School in 1972, Pam won the local Junior Miss pageant and the regional title and won the performing arts award at the state contest.

Performance with the university orchestra involves two-and-a-half hours of rehearsal time three days a week and one concert on the Peace Auditorium stage every month. In addition to her regular music education classes, Pam works in a Belleville store.

Last year she earned a 4.0 grade point average.

Speaking of her future plans, the young violinist said: "I would love to see if I can make it as a performing artist but I will be happy to teach others to enjoy music as much as I always have."

depending on the number of children signing up for the program.

Parents, signing permission slips, agree to send their children either in a group with one responsible adult in charge, or to accompany individual children to the movies.

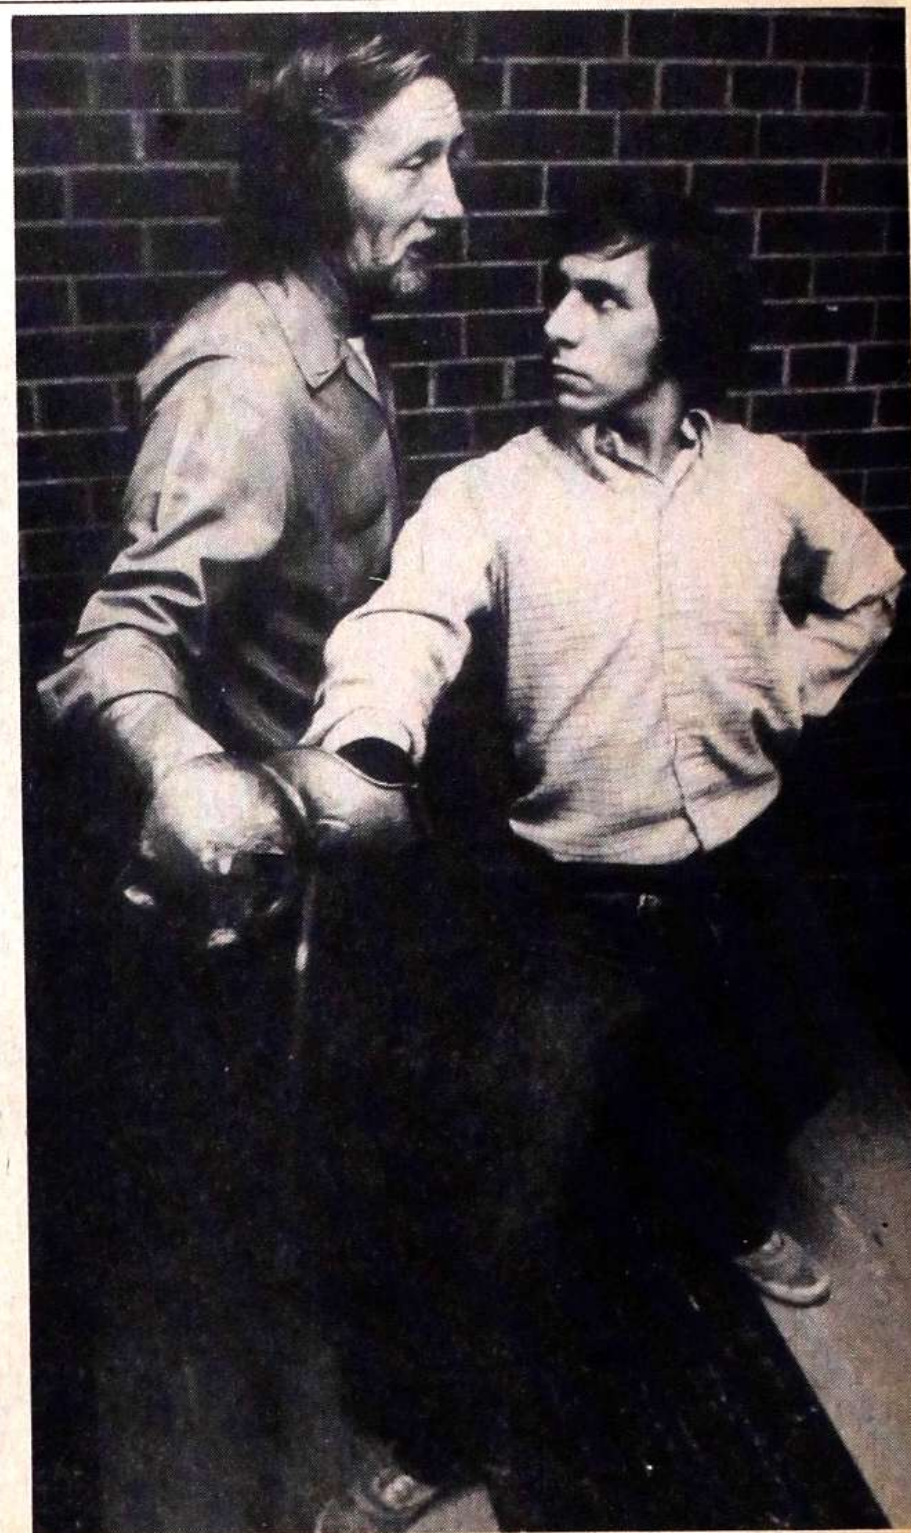

Only those children who have adult supervision will be admitted. Adults attending the movies will be admitted free.

MOVIES ARE scheduled to run for 150 minutes, and will include such Walt Disney features as "The Absent-Minded Professor" and "The Living Desert" along with cartoon features.

Shows will begin at 1 p.m. each Saturday.

"We're hoping for a good response to this program," said Jaycee project chairman, Gary Johnson. "It provides children of our community with an excellent opportunity to enjoy the most up-to-date movies at costs children and their parents can afford."

The project will be run as a non-profit venture by the Jaycees with proceeds from the ticket sale to be used to purchase films, to clean the Romulus high school, and to hire the school's projectionist.

ON GUARD—Members of the Wayne-Westland Civic Theater rehearse a scene from the group's upcoming performance of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," a story of a French soldier in the 1600s. Starring as Cyrano is Bill Hoffman (left) who defends himself against de Valert, played by Juan Pablo Verde. Tickets for the play, to be presented at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the John Glenn High School Auditorium, cost $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for students and senior citizens. For ticket information contact Anne Button at 261-3183. —Daily Eagle photo.

Now at Cobo Hall

Christmas Carnival is a gift to all

"Christmas Carnival," Detroit's holiday gift to visitors of all ages, will be presented Saturday through Dec. 24 at Cobo Hall.

This free festive show is spread over a four-acre area in Halls A and B and allows ample room and comfort for everyone, a carnival spokesman said. Each youngster will have an opportunity to see Santa and receive free candy.

Visitors will be greeted by a 25-foot-tall Santa Claus surrounded by animated figures. The nativity display (with commentary) also will be featured.

Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs said that the city's Christmas carnival has become a tradition for many area families.

"There will be many beautiful displays and exciting new activities which we are sure everyone will enjoy," the mayor said.

NEW DISPLAYS for 1973 include a barrel-of-fun house, a special spaceship complete with Martian men, an expanded Santa's animal land with live exhibits and nature trails, Santa's Viking ship and the enlarged Gene LeRoy animated miniature circus. "The Three Wishes" will be presented by the Philip Mobly

Puppets daily at 10:15, 11 and 11:45 a.m., and at 1:45 p.m., with an extra show at 2:45 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

"The Elves and the Shoemaker" will be presented by Detroit Recreation Puppets daily at 4:30, 5:15, 6:45 and 7:30 p.m., with an additional show at 3:45 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Another feature in the Christmas show is the "Telephone to Santa's Workshop" display with child-size telephone booths.

CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL provides the perfect setting for taking pictures, officials said. Some displays may be photographed with available light, but many will require artificial lighting for best results.

Coordinating the carnival is J. Paul Hynes, assistant superintendent of the parks and recreation department's forestry division. Planning special entertainment for the show is Joseph Blankenship of the special events division.

Christmas Carnival will be open from Saturday to Dec. 23 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Christmas Eve from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Yuletide music is theme in Romulus high concert

Romulus High School's annual Christmas concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13, in the high school auditorium, 9650 S. Wayne Rd.

The concert band, under the direction of Ralph Miller, will play four songs, opening the concert with "Block M" by Jerry H. Bilik.

The Glee Club will follow performing three Christmas songs, including "Christmas Gloria" by Austin C. Lovelace.

The choir, conducted by Lois Munkachy and accompanied by Kathy Michiewicz, will close the program with five selections, one of which will be "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah."

Everyone is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Resident performs in concert

A Belleville resident will perform with the Western Michigan University Orchestra for the production of "Hansel and Gretel." She is Anna Alimovich of Belleville.

The musical version of the famous Grimm fairy tale will be presented as the annual Christmas program by the College of Fine Arts at Western.

Performance dates are Saturday and Sunday.

Polish National Alliance endorses formation of quarterly publication

A new line of communication to instill ethnic pride within the Polish community of Belleville was established last month - and immediately was hailed as the "symbol of a new spirit" at the Polish National Alliance (PNA) lodge in Belleville.

The lodge, sensing the need for a regular line of communication for persons of Polish heritage, endorsed the formation of a quarterly publication to "foster Polish pride and culture."

Adam Janowski Jr., with assistance to be drawn from the University of Michigan Polish Club. JANOWSKI said the publication is a first within PNA's history in the Belleville area.

The PNA was organized in Belleville on June 3, 1945; and presently maintains lodge offices and meeting facilities at Sumpter and Harris roads. Janowski said PNA membership, now at an all time high, numbers more than 500 adults. In addition, the PNA sports a youth membership of the similar number.

Ceremony held

Church burns mortgage

The Pleasant Valley A.M.E. Church of Belleville recently held a mortgage burning ceremony in the sanctuary of the church.

A pot luck dinner was served prior to the ceremony with parishioners and guests in attendance. The guests were The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Rittenberry, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Belleville, and The Rev. and Mrs. A.W. Peterson, assistant pastor of the Smith Chapel in Inkster.

During the ceremony the history of the church was related by Denise DeLaine. The details of the mortgage and subsequent burning ceremony were presented by Sidney Murphy, secretary of the church's building fund. Music for the occasion was presented by the Sumpter Community Chorus and the Pleasant Voices Choir of Pleasant Valley Church.

Robert Murphy, chairman of the building fund, ignited the flame that sent the church indebtedness "up in smoke."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) See how you can build a reserve for the future. Contact an expert if wondering how to handle some important matter. Please mate in p.m. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take beauty or other treatments to make yourself healthier and more attractive. Postpone social matters and handle business affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't fret about things you don't like but quietly eliminate them from your life. Close ties are having rough sledding. Help them. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't rely on that friend who is usually helpful since this person has own concerns to handle now. Forget the social and work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Not the right day to approach one in authority for favor you want. Make collections, pay bills and handle other important matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into further study that will help you make some new plan workable. Not the right day to make that new contact so await a better time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pay bills and clear decks for bigger operations. Use a different approach with mate for better results. Avoid one with eye on your assets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may not like ally's new plan, but only because you don't understand it, so don't upbraid associate. Give it time to prove itself.

Answer on Page B-13

UNUSUAL MIRRORED WALL—This living room wall was created from various shapes and sizes of beveled plate glass installed around an already-existing fireplace. The apparent room size is multiplied, and a lovely second view of the outdoors is provided which reflects the changing seasons.

Mirrors provide 'a modern look'

In a living room mirrors can provide a modern look for traditional furnishings. Try hanging a framed mirror at one end of a sofa or table and balancing a more-or-less equal mass at the other end.

THIS COULD be a picture, a floor lamp or a vase of flowers on an end table.

In a bedroom, mirrors can double as sliding closet doors. Not only will they serve as a great grooming aid, but they also will catch and increase the sun's light.

The one room in the home which always seems to have a mirror of some sort is the bathroom. If your bathroom is somewhat small, once again a mirrored wall will do the trick. A medicine cabinet with a decorative frame then can be mounted within the mirror wall. This mirror-on-mirror effect provides a real decorator focal point and increases the light where you need it most.

The most neglected room when it comes to mirrors probably is the kitchen. Yet, wouldn't this be the perfect place to install a small vanity mirror and shelf so a busy housewife can comb her hair and re-apply makeup after finishing her kitchen duties?

TO REMEDY the blabs caused by a kitchen sink and cabinets that face an interior wall, install mirrors on the wall along the perimeter of the counter and below and above the cabinets.

The mirrors will reflect the light and the view from kitchen windows on the opposite wall. The sparkling mirrors are so much easier to clean than painted or papered walls since all the mirrors need to retain their beauty is cleaning with a soft cloth and weak solution.

Mirrors weigh about four pounds to the square foot, a good fact to remember when you hang a decorative framed mirror. For a mirror weighing less than 35 pounds, use twin-strand wire over two wall hooks, four inches apart.

If you have a heavier one, place hooks farther apart to break the weight. It's best to have glass mirrors cut to size by your mirror dealer since cutting requires special tools and techniques.

ADHESIVE-BACKED mirror squares are an easy way to achieve a mirrored wall effect and are readily available from many retail stores.

Yes, a mirror can help you be a true magician — it reflects and multiplies the amount of light in a room, is easily cleaned and with proper selection can "match" immediately any type of room decoration.

Mirrors can produce 'magic' in decorating

When performed correctly, magic is an art which produces illusions and extraordinary results.

A leading supplier of raw glass to mirror manufacturers encourages you to try a little magic of your own by using mirrors; watch rooms grow, spaces change, discover infinity. By using mirrors you, too, can become a "sleight of hand" master. For example:

—The oldest mirror trick still works. Use a mirror to make a hall look longer or a room seem larger.

—Place a mirror on a dark wall the sun never reaches. Watch that mirror snare the light.

—Stretch the boundaries of a narrow room with a mirrored wall.

—Enjoy your home's favorite view, even if furniture arrangements force you to sit with your back to the wall. Reflect the view in a mirror.

—Enlarge your apparent dining area by setting your table against the mirrored wall of a tiny dining alcove.

MIRRORS DO more than provide reflection and decorative wall touches; they actually can double the apparent size of a room, extend the expanse of walls, ceiling and floor, and give an illusion of greater spaciousness to areas that would otherwise be boxlike and confining.

Take, for example, the case of a small foyer. A mirrored wall enlarges the apparent size of the room and also provides arriving guests with a sneak preview of your home.

In a room this size, an antique mirrored wall is most subtle, yet effective. A handy console table placed in the foyer doubles with the mirror as a grooming aid for making that last-minute check before leaving the house.

Today decorative framed mirrors are being created for every room in the house. Whether a person's tastes are delicate, colonial, modern, traditional or whatever, a framed mirror can be found to answer his needs.

ALTHOUGH THE quality of the mirror itself is the prime consideration, a handsome frame greatly will increase a mirror's beauty.

Choose a frame that's the right feeling and the right size for your room and its furnishings — a slender, vertical mirror over a wide chest will look spindly, a huge mirror over a small table will dwarf it.

More and more decorators are using framed mirrors as though they were pictures. In fact, in busy rooms that require simple wall treatment, mirrors often are more effective than pictures. Reflect something lovely in your mirror — a bowl of flowers, a sparkling chandelier.

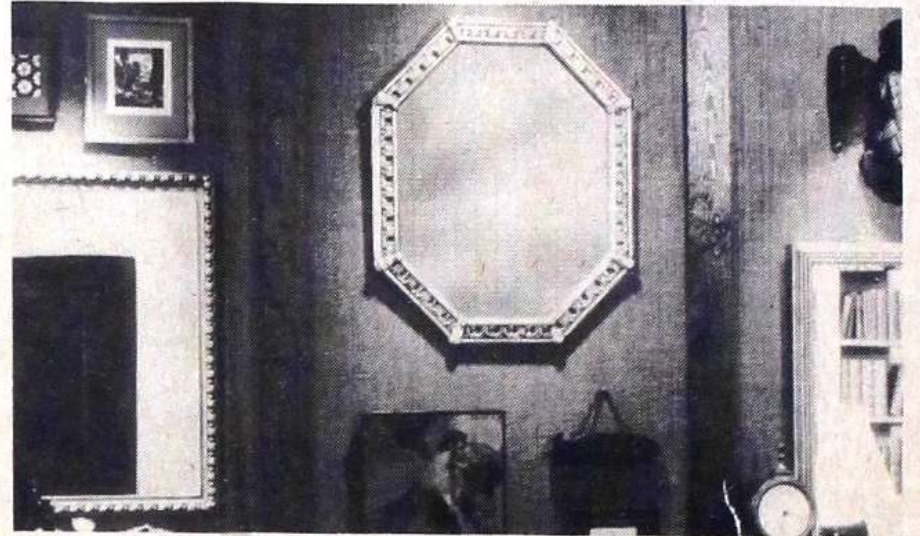

Or if you have a big sofa or

EXPERIMENT with mirrors as a stage director does with lights — try various places to see what drama their reflected light gives.

Over a dining room buffet, for example, an unusual arrangement can be made by hanging a decorative mirror off center and standing a single candlestick on the other end of the buffet.

At night this irregular balance especially is striking as the light from the candle is combined with the room light reflected in the mirror.

IT'S BASIC, YET IMAGINATIVE—This arrangement of decorative framed mirrors and art objects forms this den's dramatic accent wall. An otherwise harsh, cold room is warmed by the simple composition of shapes on a fabric surface.

Belleville man writes a poem

The following poem regarding the giving of gifts at Christmas time was written by William H. Carr of 8701 Belleville Rd., Belleville.

Beneath the Christmas tree the presents lie in grand array, awaiting to be opened on the coming Christmas day;

But of all the pretty presents there, I'm sure of this one thing, the one that means the most to me is the one tied up with string.

It isn't very fancy, and it's really pretty small, but what makes it stand out from the rest; more important than them all,

Was the little girl who wrapped it, for she knew the joy 'twould bring to give her dad her present tied with Ordinary String.

North High candy sale raises funds for gym

The student council at the North Junior High School in Belleville is conducting its annual area-wide candy sale this week. The sale will continue through Dec. 14.

The student council hopes to raise more than $700 in this year's sale. Earlier this year, the council elected to try and raise enough funds to purchase bleachers for the school's gymnasium.

Some of the leading sales people are Larry Cicotte, Liz Stapleton, Joni Lindblad, Robin Wilson, Carol Smith, Frank Buhro and Roy Rutherford, according to student council members.

VA offers counseling for new homeowners

Frank J. Kilcullen Jr., Acting Director of the Detroit Office of the Veterans Administration, wants all veterans to be made aware of a continuous service which is being offered by the Veterans Administration (VA).

It is a home counseling program aimed at minority veterans. Programs are in operation in Detroit, Los Angeles, Baltimore and many other large cities.

Kilcullen said the counseling service is offered from 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in order to reach those persons working during the day.

Veterans will be counseled at the regional office located at 801 W. Baltimore, Detroit, on an appointment basis only. Appointments can be made by calling 874-2340, ext. 413.

The purpose of the VA home counseling program is to advise the potential homebuyer of the technical and financial aspects of home buying.

In their anxiety to become homeowners they overlook factors that should be taken into consideration when taking on the responsibility of such a long term investment," Kilcullen said.

SPARKPLUG — Coming off the bench, Belleville's Ernie Thornbury (51) sparked a second period rally that helped the Tigers catch Ypsilanti, but it wasn't enough to stop the Braves. Niemi: 'Our inexperience showed' Ypsi ruins coach's debut

One thing for sure, Belleville cagers will have a lot of layup drills this week. Those "easy dogshots" led to the Tigers' demise at Ypsilanti Friday night.

"We missed seven layups in the first period," moaned Coach Tom Niemi whose debut as the Belleville head coach was ruined by the Braves. "And would you believe that we missed 15 layups for the game?"

Half of those easy shots would have easily made up the difference in the Tigers' 58-43 opening day loss.

"I was disappointed that we didn't win, of course," continued Niemi, "but I do feel we did play good enough to win."

SCORING only five points in the first period, Belleville made up a 12 point deficit early in the second stanza as Ernie Thornbury, Otis Turrentine and Narvell Turner came off the bench to ignite a Tiger rally.

Trailing 17-5 at the end of the initial quarter, Belleville erased the deficit and knotted the score at 19-19, then fell behind 28-21 at the half.

Though Ypsilanti outscored their visitors 12-11 in the third period, midway in that frame the Tigers deadlocked the score again.

However, the Braves pulled away in the fourth period

thanks to an 18-11 scoring edge.

BELLEVILLE shot a dismal 26 per cent from the floor, hitting on 14 of 54 shots. The Tigers capitalized on 15 of 25 free throws.

"What's so bad about those figures," related Niemi, "is that we took only three shots from outside the free throw line, so they were close shots that should have been made."

"I have to attribute the poor shooting to first night jitters," he added.

MEANWHILE, Ypsilanti canned 21 of 57 from the floor for 27 per cent and also realized 16 of 31 free throws.

One bright spot for the Tigers in the opener was the rebounding chart which showed Belleville having a 37-29 edge. Nearly half of those was accredited to sophomore Dennis Easley who hauled down 15.

"Dennis played a good game for us," said the Tiger coach. "He's only a sophomore and when he gets the experience he's going to be tough."

MELVIN ABRAHAM was the lone Belleville cager to hit in double figures. He sank five field goals and five from the free throw line for 15 points.

Ypsi's Tim Robinson's 17 points, however, were high for the game. Teammates Ed Duffin and Booker Weathers also were in double figures. Weathers counted 14 while Duffin added 13.

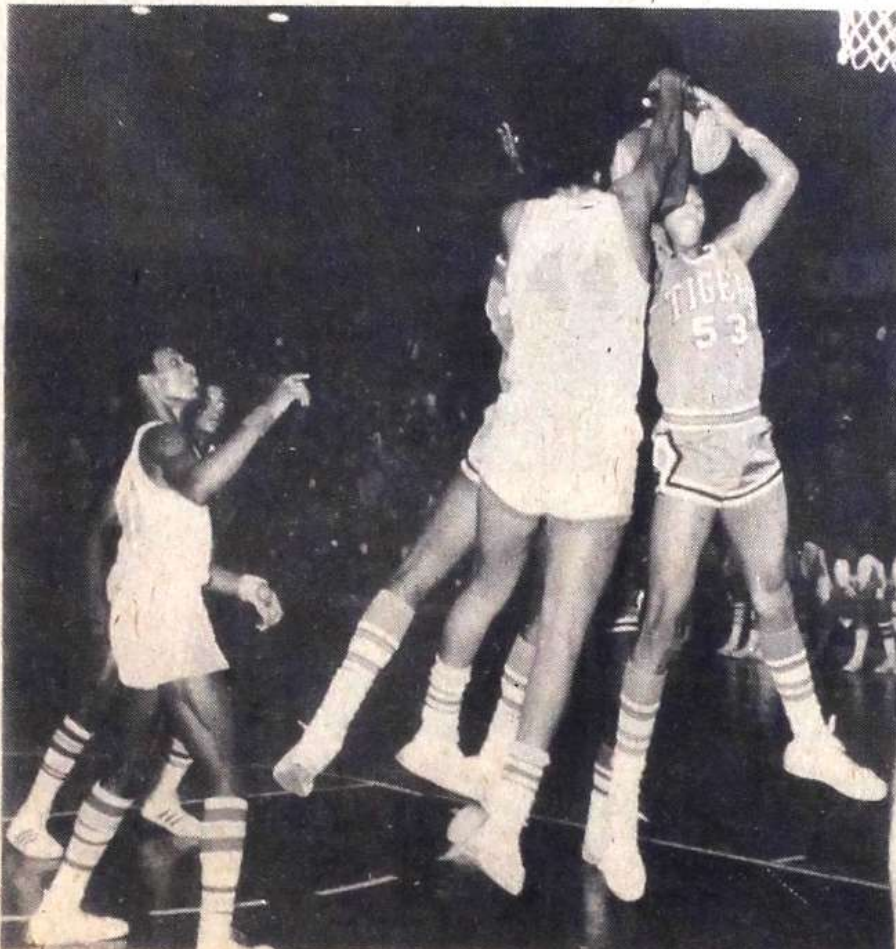

Belleville will begin the grueling Suburban 8 Conference campaign Friday night at Edsel Ford, a team that is considerably taller than the Tigers.

"We're running up against an extremely tall team," said Niemi. "and we won't be able to make the mistakes we did in the opener."

"We can correct our mistakes, I'm sure of it."

DUEL UNDER THE BOARDS — Weathering a leaping Booker Weathers (44), Belleville's Will Currie manages to snare this rebound in Friday night's opener at Ypsilanti. Though Currie and the Tigers had the

A lawsuit in our future?

By TOM MOORADIAN

Little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice?

Maybe.

But, some also could be the impetus of our first lawsuit if we try to prohibit them from competing in our prestigious Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational.

That invitational will be staged at Westland John Glenn on Feb. 15-16.

IN THE DECADE we have held the meets, the competition has been an all male tournament, but with the emergence of young ladies who are gaining statewide and national prominence in the sport, we will have to open the doors to them.

Or else...

"You're going to have to let the girls compete," warns Sam Vicchy, Belleville High swim coach. "Unless someone wants a lawsuit on his hands. The girls have a right to compete just as anyone else does."

Vicchy offers the bit of legal advice - without a fee. He, as well as other prep coaches, have learned the facts of life through the trials and tribulations of the Michigan High School Athletic Association which has been sued over the years to expand girls' athletics.

THE MHSAA has accepted court orders to set up special events for girls, and letting the girls play with boys in non-contact sports.

Swimming, as far as I know, is a non-contact sport.

IT ALSO GOES to say that if the girls can win any of the WW Swim & Dive events they also will be eligible to become candidates for our coveted All-Area team. And any gal who does make the grade will be making a bit of history. No girl has ever been selected on an All-Area team since I started pounding this typewriter.

Do you know that there are some legitimate candidates?

Sharon Burlingame, who swims for Garden City West High and captured a first place in the 100-yard butterfly (1:05.8) in the Tigers' opening meet against Ypsilanti and also helped the 200-yard medley relay team place first (1:56.1) and Kay MacDonald, who swims for Garden City East High could surprise some of their male counterparts.

The two gals are products of the Garden City Parks and Recreation Department and have prospered thanks to the coaching of Mrs. Jewel Cooke.

Then, Belleville's Alieta Rice, a senior who looks real good on the diving boards - she won her varsity debut last Thursday, leading a Belleville sweep in the event against Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

"I think Miss Rice has an excellent shot at the WW diving title," said Coach Vicchy. "she will have to beat the fellow from Wayne out for it. But she's tough and a hard worker."

And why are girls looking for more ink?

Would you believe that some are eyeing athletic scholarships. If the boys can muscle their way through colleges and universities across this nation through their athletic ability, the gals feel it's high time they also are allotted the same opportunities.

And all I can say is, "good luck."

I don't dare say anything else.

Huron stuns Flat Rock

Despite trailing by six points after one quarter, New Boston Huron High's varsity basketball team made amends and finally outlasted Flat Rock, 70-64, last Friday in the season-opening cage tussle for both teams.

And, if it wasn't bad enough that the first game was just that — a typical mistake-riddled season-opening affair — it also shoved the two Huron League squads right into the title race. Generally, the first several weeks of a season consist of non-league games to give teams a chance to workout the bugs for the league schedules.

JOE RICKERT triggered the Huron comeback in the second period as the Chiefs grabbed a 35-32 halfway lead. And his 27 points were not only game-high, but kept Flat Rock at arm's length the rest of the night.

Huron upped its lead by two at the three-quarter mark, 53-48, but had to fend off a Flat Rock surge in the final eight minutes for the win.

Charles Irwin kept Huron from running away with the game as he pumped in 18 points for Flat Rock. Teammate Bob Hessler chipped in with 15 while Mark Clum had 14.

For Huron, Jim Pidgeon canned 13 points as Coach Andy Herman's number two scorer, and Don Bennett added 12.

North Junior High has 'great' season

It's been an auspicious fall season for three teams at North Junior High School. The school's cross country, eighth and ninth grade football teams all posted perfect records.

The cross country team, coached by Bruce Romant, won all of its dual and triangular meets and climaxed the season by winning the 9-school Invitational Meet which was held recently at Metropolitan Park.

North also won the "special" race which was staged primarily for the benefit of the underclassmen on each team. Selected as the Most Valuable Runner from among the 7th and 8th grade team members was Frank Buhro, while brother Donald Buhro was selected as the MVP for the 9th grade.

THE EIGHTH Grade Football Team won all four games it played this fall. Two scheduled games were cancelled because of the work stoppage. David Smith and Larry Tabor are the team's coaches. Brent Verrot was selected as the team's Most Valuable Player.

The Ninth Grade football team, coached by Paul Druker and Ken Palmer won the four games it played, and had three games cancelled due to work stoppage. Dale Adkins was named the team's Most Valuable Player.

The coaches agreed that, "having three undefeated teams in one season is very unusual, and is the source of pride on the part of the students of North Junior High School, the coaching staff, and the players and their parents."

"But the thing that we can be even more proud of is the fine manner in which these young athletes have conducted themselves both on and off the field. Much of the credit for this must go to the coaches and the entire community, for it is only through the combined efforts of many, many people that we are able to offer our students the opportunity to participate in interscholastic athletics and to have the chance to experience first-hand the importance of hard work, loyalty, fair play, and cooperation toward a team goal. We feel confident that such experiences will help these youngsters grow toward a position of responsible citizenship in our community," they said.

MHSAA reveals district cage sites

The Michigan High School Athletic Association juggled the district and regional basketball playoff sites for the 1973-74 season and area teams will find themselves in unfamiliar environments.

Romulus, a defending district champ, will host Cherry Hill, Taylor Kennedy, Taylor Center and Taylor Truman, while Livonia Stevenson got the nod as the host school for teams representing Garden City East, Garden City West, Livonia Bentley, Churchill, Franklin and the host.

Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Ann Arbor Huron and Pioneer, Belleville and Ypsilanti will assemble to contest a district championship.

MEANWHILE, old rivals Robichaud, Inkster and River

Rouge will have the defending Class B state champ, Divine Child as an additional thorn in their path.

The three Suburban Athletic Conference rivals will meet at Rouge while also invited are Dearborn Heights Riverside and Ecorse - the district is one of the strongest in the state.

New Boston Huron will travel to Riverview where Carleton-Airport, Grosse Ile, Riverview, Rockwood, Carlisle, Southgate Aquinas and Ypsilanti Willow Run are scheduled to see action.

The MHSAA has set aside March 4-9 as the dates for the district tournaments while the regionals will begin March 12 through 16. State quarter-finals will be played Thursday, March 21 in several centers throughout the state.

The state semi-finals will commence on Sat., March 23 and the finals in all classes will be at East Lansing, Michigan State University, on Saturday, March 30.

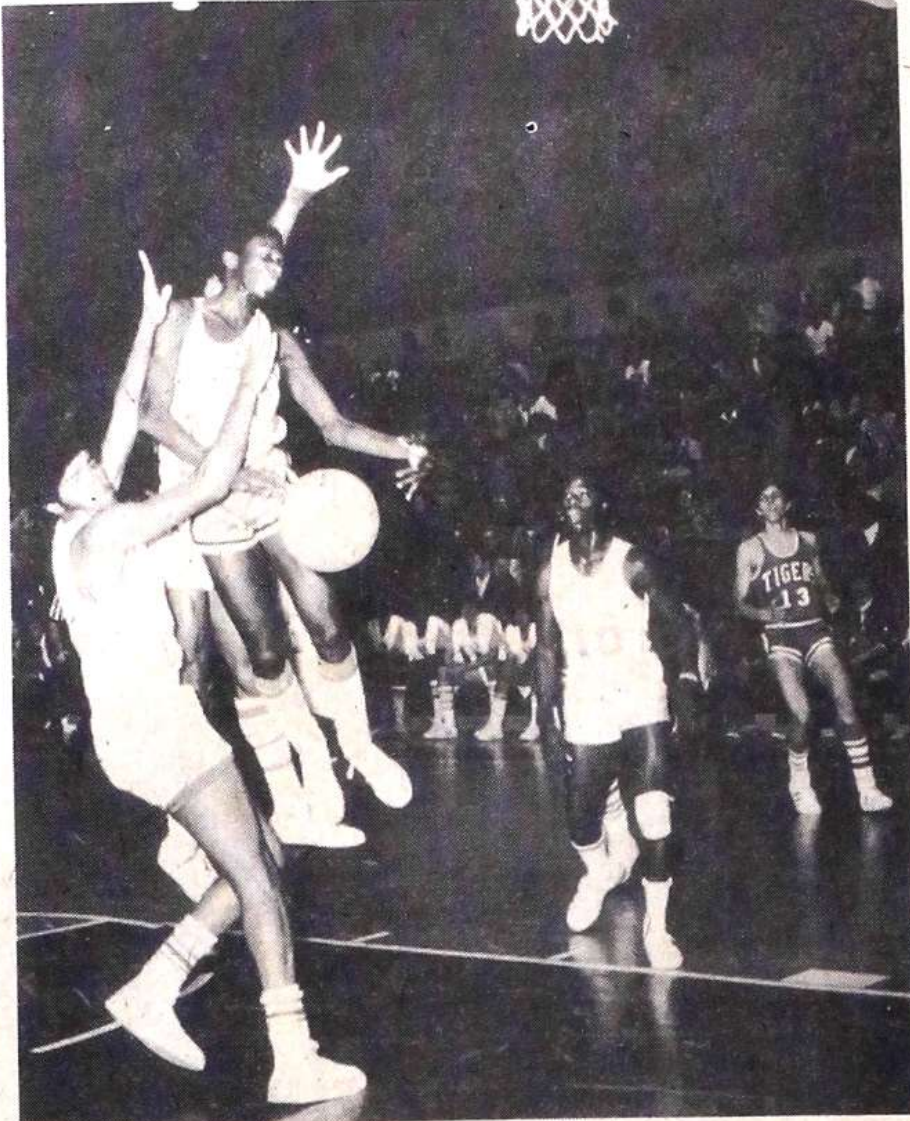

Determination of locations and assignments of classes and teams to each tournament were made by the Basketball Tournament Committees in the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

3 Ocelots selected all-league

Three members of the outstanding Schoolcraft College soccer team were named to the 1973 Michigan Community College Athletic Association All-Star team.

Arthur Wyszynski was unanimous selection as one of the fullbacks on the squad, while another Schoolcraft standout, George Kala, was tapped for the other fullback slot.

Warren gets WSU Break-Maker award

A freshman copped Wayne State University's Hitter Award for the first time since 1966 while a pair of senior linemen deadlocked for the Break-Maker Award according to figures released by second-year Head Coach Dave Hoover.

Linebacker Keith Anleitner, a 170-pound yearling from Garden City East, topped WSU's tacklers with 138 points. He was the first freshman to lead the team in tackling since the late Ron Solack (Grosse Ile) turned the trick in 1966.

And, like Solack, Anleitner did not become a starter until mid-season. His first starting assignment was at Ferris State, WSU's fifth foe, a special 4-4 defense.

MEANWHILE, senior captain tackle John Wilkerson, a two-way starter, and senior middle guard Larry Warren deadlocked for the Break-Maker Award. That award goes to the player or players who account for the most "breaks" for WSU via forced fumbles, recovered fumbles, blocked punts or kicks, interceptions or sacks of the passer.

Wilkerson, a 6-1, 223-pounder from Detroit-Servite, and Warren, a 5-11, 223-pounder from Kettering High School who lives in Belleville, each had seven breaks.

That's the first time there's been a tie for the award since

Ken Semelsberger (Detroit-Servite), Wilkerson's prep coach, and Fred White (Redford Union) tied in 1968.

Warren forced one fumble, covered four opponent fumbles (to lead the team) and sacked the passer twice. Wilkerson covered a fumble and had a team-high six sacks of the passer. At the same time, he was playing tackle on WSU's strong side offensively.

Romulus coach shuffles lineup

Applying the old theory that defense wins games, Romulus cage Coach Jesse Meriweather is juggling his starting lineup to get the necessary combination to win.

"If a player scores 20 points and his player also gets 20," said Meriweather, "then it amounts to nothing. We got to learn how to play defense because defense, in the long run, wins basketball games."

ROMULUS, which went into last night's game against

Detroit Southeastern with a 1-1 record, will take on Ecorse's Red Raiders Friday night on the home court.

"Ecorse is tough," said Meriweather. "They have a fine basketball tradition. We got to be ready for them to win."

The first-year Romulus coach said he would probably use John Long and James Hall, two veterans of last year's campaign, and Michael Morrison, Bryon Garner and Darnell Hearst as his starters.

Is "Bo" about to quit as head football coach at the University of Michigan?

Or is Big 10 Commissioner Wayne Duke about to step down from that post?

One or the other will have to come up with some apologies, if the two men are to continue in their present employments. And I don't see the commissioner apologizing to Bo.

Schembechler has hurled some serious barbs and challenges at the Big 10 commissioner after the Wolverines were left holding a 10-10 tie with Ohio State last Saturday, that also left them at the station and the Buckeyes as the conference's representative in the Rose Bowl Game.

Bo has told reporters that "I do think Duke influenced the directors' decision by pointing to (Dennis) Franklin's injury. If he did not engineer it that way, he did influence it. We're not necessarily a worse team without Denny in there. Larry Cipa (Franklin's backup) is an excellent quarterback."

"DUKE DESTROYED every prestige he had left with that decision," Bo said. "He was running scared. He knew he had to win this year's game."

Big 10 teams have lost the last four Rose Bowl games.

Duke reportedly polled the Big 10 athletic directors after Saturday's game between Michigan and Ohio State via telephone. The directors, in a secret vote, picked Ohio State to go to the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena, Cal.

The game between the two undefeated Big 10 powers, instead of settling which of the two is the better, stirred up emotions, passions and a couple of lawsuits by Michiganders who contend that Duke "improperly not only influenced the vote, but engineered it," and that the selection of Ohio State to represent the Big 10 is "arbitrary and capricious."

Schembechler, whose teams have had phenomenal success since he took over in 1969 (Bo has amassed a five year record of 48-6-1 won-lost-tied during his reign) also has demanded that the fans have the right to know how each of the 10 athletic directors voted.

THE VOTE went 6-4 against Michigan and Bo has hinted that Michigan's sister school - Michigan State - voted against the Wolverines.

A tie (5-5 vote) would have given Michigan the ticket to the Rose Bowl.

MSU athletic director Burt Smith had refused to reveal how the voting went until yesterday, arguing that it would serve no purpose at this time to give fans that information.

I'd have to go along with that.

There are too many irrational people in this state - and nation - who think they can play God.

DUKE KNOWS that he can't let Schembechler or any other coach in the league - get away with the derogatory adjectives about the conference if he is to maintain his image as commissioner. The Big 10 commissioner will have to take steps to censure the fiery Michigan coach or else bow out as the commissioner.

And Bo has been around long enough to realize he can't bad-mouth a commissioner and a league without expecting some retaliatory action.

So keep your eyes on Bo and Duke - something's gotta give.

Oh, and I'd give anything - even my seat in the University of Michigan press box - for an invitation to the Big 10 business meeting they'll be holding in Chicago next week.

What seat in Michigan's press box, Mr. Mooradian?

Dear Tom,

Read your column about the Michigan, Ohio State football controversy with interest. I can't buy that "third party" argument. (The Sports Meridian argued that in the case of the M-Ohio State game, the issue should have been settled on the gridiron and not by a third party.)

The only reason why Michigan isn't going to the Rose Bowl is because quarterback Dennis Franklin was injured and Big 10 Conference commissioner Wayne Duke is running scared.

Big 10 teams haven't had a Rose Bowl victory in so many years so Duke convinced the ADs that, without Franklin, Michigan couldn't beat Southern California, so Ohio State should go because they had a better chance of winning than did Michigan.

Of course we all know by now that the athletic directors bought the argument.

Third parties, when they are unbiased, have settled most of the deadlocks and they are a part of our everyday life. Without a third party, we would be lost and things like strikes would go on indefinitely, countries would war until the last man and, well, you name it.

I don't know the kind of mail you have been getting since the publications of those columns, but I'll bet they have been nasty. I do have to give you credit, though, that you will speak up without reservation and express your personal opinions which many in your shoes are afraid to do so.

I, for one, enjoy reading your column. Keep up the excellent work.

Respectfully,
John Walton

Tree farms offer touch of Christmas 'chopping'

Area residents with a zest for the outdoors can add some Christmas "chopping" to their list of Yuletide festivities this year with 18 cut-your-own tree farms in operation in southeastern Michigan during the holiday season.

Tree farms, such as Boughan's Tree Farm in Belleville, are offering a wide variety of evergreens for prices ranging from $3 for unpruned Scotch pines to $3 a foot for blue spruces. Most trees sell from $5 to $7.

To help make the Christmas tree cutting festive one farm is offering horse-drawn sleighs while others are providing free wagon rides to and from the trees.

AMONG THE other extras available at the different farms are a cider mill, free candy for the children and snack bars.

Saws are available at the farms, but Joseph Ratke, manager of the Automobile Club of Michigan's touring, recommends that saws be taken on the excursion, since many farms run short on weekends.

Farm visitors also should take a rope for tying their trees and rags to protect their cars. Axes should not be taken due to their unsafe nature and most farms do not allow them.

The tree farms open to the public are included in the following list and located on the corresponding map.

(1) DOG PATCH Tree Farm, 5236 Shover Road, Clifford, where prices range from $4 for Scotch pine to $7.50 for fern. Wreathes and other greenery also are available. It's open from dawn to dark seven days a week. For information call (517) 761-7235.

Health department cautions residents about rabid bats

Not since September, 1965 has there been a confirmed case of animal rabies in Wayne County.

Now, within the last two months three confirmed rabies positive bats have been discovered in the county. Fortunately, no human was bitten in any of the three cases. According to Dr. Val Vangieson, Veterinarian for the Wayne County Health Department, the disease is 100 per cent fatal in all animals, including humans.

Vangieson said: "These recent findings of rabid bats should be viewed with concern by residents of Wayne County, particularly in the out-county area where the potential exposure to wild animal life increases."

"Children should be advised by their parents not to pick up, touch or go near any animal, tame or wild, that acts peculiarly, particularly a wild animal, who by nature will avoid people," Dr. Vangieson warned.

Wild animals with a history of carrying the deadly disease virus are bats, skunks and foxes. An unprovoked bite by any of those three wild animals should be responded to immediately as potential rabies, according to the health department veterinarian.

Vangieson further recommends that all dogs and cats be vaccinated against rabies, particularly those pets who have a great chance of contacting a wild animal.

He also emphasized that if a person received an animal bite which punctures the skin, that the suspected rabid animal be secured, either dead or alive, for observation and testing if necessary.

"A physician should be immediately contacted after the bite," he said. "In the event that the suspected animal is difficult to contain, the local animal control officer should be contacted."

Car pool drivers should heed snow care

Because of the current concern for conservation resulting in the growing emphasis on forming car pools, many drivers who formerly made the trip to work alone are now becoming more concerned about the safety of their passengers.

They've become more preparedness minded. As a result, many area drivers, have turned to Romulus Police Chief for an informed opinion on how to get their passengers to work on time during the winter months regardless of ice and snow covered pavements.

Disclaiming any personal expertise, the chief today gave out information based on National Safety Council test findings.

Conventional snow tires (without studs) provide more traction than regular tires.

CONVENTIONAL snow tires (without studs) provide more traction than regular tires for pulling through loosely packed snow, but offer no advantage in stopping on icy pavements.

Studded snow tires, on the other hand, provide about three times the pulling ability of regular tires on ice and cut braking distance by 19 per cent. Still unmatched in providing traction for both starting and stopping in severe winter conditions is the time-honored remedy for winter worry employed by generations of drivers—reinforced tire chains, readily applied when needed and easily removed when the need has passed, the chief said.

Published research results show the following average performance, based on tests conducted on ice at temperatures at 25 degrees:

STOPPING distance for a car traveling at 20 m.p.h. with reinforced tire chains, 75 feet; with new studded snow tires on the rear, 120 feet; with conventional snow tires on the rear, 151 feet; with regular tires, 149 feet.

With respect to pulling ability on ice, studded tires hold the same relative position in efficiency—that is, between regular snow tires and tire chains, according to the council's committee on winter driving hazards.

The committee's report summarizes traction test results by stating that snow tires give 28 per cent improvement over regular tires on ice, new studded tires provide 218 per cent improvement, and reinforced tire chains offer 630 per cent improvement on glare ice.

Koch said drivers seeking traction devices that provide complete summertime traction protection to himself and his passengers and that permit full summertime driving speeds in winter are doomed to disappointment.

Even when using recommended traction aids, he warned that increased caution, reduced speed, and much greater following distances in traffic are the essential ingredients of safe winter driving.

For salaried employees

Hospital board nixes updated pension plan

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

The 900 salaried employees at the four Peoples Community Hospital (PCHA) Authority facilities are without an updated pension plan, after the PCHA Board of Directors turned down a proposal resulting from six months of study.

More than 18 months ago, the board decided to update its pension plan and six months ago it hired the Wyatt Company to study and propose a pension plan for the salaried employees at its facilities including Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park, Seaway Hospital in Trenton and Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

In the words of one board member, The Rev. Kurt Heidmann, "The pension proposal 'makes some benefits non-existent.'"

HEIDMANN, Wayne's representative to the board, said he thought the pension proposal "shows a disparity and inequity while on the surface it appears equitable."

"A hidden factor within the plan makes it inequitable," Heidmann added. "Based on the rates that employees are forced to pay under the present social security law,"

The plan would give a salaried worker with 30 years of experience, who earns $7,000 now, $455 per month in pension benefits while not requiring a donation to the pension plan, and a salaried administrator with 30 years of experience earning $55,000 per year a $2,268 pension while not contributing to the plan.

Although the pension for the $7,000 per year worker would amount to 78 per cent of the employee's pay, and the pension for the higher-paid individual amounted to 49.5 per cent of pay, Heidmann said the plan was inequitable, based on the relative amount each is required to contribute under social security.

"IT'S UNFAIR to compare the two proposals, because the lower salaried individual would be compelled to contribute 5.85 per cent of his pay yearly for social security benefits until he earned a minimum of $12,650," he said. "While the higher salaried individual would be required to contribute 1.39 per cent of his total pay to social security, because he is above the $12,600 salary bracket."

"With the conditions for pension like that, benefits are in essence non-existent."

Under social security law, all workers are required to contribute 5.85 per cent of their annual pay to the plan until a ceiling of $12,600 in salary yearly.

Under the plan, a worker making $12,600 per year would contribute $737.10 per year toward social security, while the individual earning $55,000 per year would be required to contribute the same amount.

HEIDMANN said that although the plan is called "non-contributory," it actually requires a contribution, because benefits are computed by adding the PCHA paid pensions to the social security pensions.

The $7,000 per year worker actually collected $180 per month from the PCHA, and adds another $275 per month under social security benefits.

"Under a proposal such as this, you do dishonor to a man who has worked 30 years, and then has to go on welfare three years into retirement because of his pension plan," Heidmann said.

Board members James Cunningham from Allen Park, and Edward R. Ducek of Inkster opposed Heidmann's interpretation of the proposal.

CUNNINGHAM said: "You talk about a $7,000 per year wage earner, but I wonder how many of those wage-earners are secondary earners and have husbands earning $25,000 per year?"

"If you look at the percentages, you will see that a person earning that $7,000 gets 78 per cent of his salary under the proposal, while the higher bracketed individual — the $55,000 per year man — earns only 49.5 per cent of his salary."

Ducek added: "You're not considering incentive. If you change the plan, you're punishing certain people for going up the ladder."

"You end up putting the finger on an individual who has worked his way up to a higher salary, and then is required to take a lower pension."

"ANYTIME an individual earns 83 per cent of his salary in pension, he's doing good."

Under the proposal, a worker with 30 years of service earning $6,794 per year today would receive $474 per month — 83.7 per cent of his salary, at the time of retirement.

"You start quoting percentages of salary to me for people who can't go to the store and purchase eggs on percentages," Heidmann countered.

"I feel a responsibility toward these people who are at the lower end," he added.

The board agreed with Heidmann, in a 11-15 vote and turned down the proposal.

Board member Robert D. Marble of Sumpter Township voted against the proposal, while Board members James C. Stewart of Romulus and Rev. Daniel Richert of Huron Township voted in favor of it.

Van Buren Township Clerk Patricia Cullen was appointed to a committee to study the pension proposal and offer changes.

Nursery announces winner

The winner of a chair — the prize of a recently held raffle sponsored by the Carousel Co-operative Nursery, of Belleville — was a second grade teacher at the Elwell Elementary School in Belleville.

She is Lee Mary King of Ann Arbor. Miss King won the opportunity to choose color and fabric of the chair which was sold at cost to the nursery by Roberts Brothers Furniture Store in Belleville.

The nursery reported that the raffle, which was the nursery's major money-making project for this year, was a "success."

State has thin line to manage in crisis

GARY M. OWEN
State Representative 22nd District

Each day the energy shortage becomes more of a crisis. The message from Gov. Milliken emphasized the very thin line Michigan consumers must walk to keep the fuel shortage from eliminating many jobs, closing schools and other important institutions, literally leaving homes "out in the cold."

The message agreed closely with bills introduced by Rep.

William Fitzgerald (D-Detroit), chairman of the select committee to investigate the energy crisis. Both sources ask the legislature to designate a state agency to allocate existing supplies during the shortage, and to strictly enforce strong fuel conservation measures.

As expected, the governor requested immediate emergency authority to lower speed limits and to declare a state of "severe energy shortage" if necessary. He already has designated the director of Michigan's Department of Commerce to coordinate Michigan's role in the Federal Mandatory Allocation Program. State action includes continuance of the task force on fuel supply's emergency telephone service to consumers caught short of fuel.

THE STATE HIGHWAY department specifically was requested to assist in the establishment of car pools and park-and-ride programs as well as in the upgrading and rehabilitation of public transit so that workers and other travelers could share limited fuel for transportation.

Travel to other cities and to distant recreational sites would be assisted by the department. The governor particularly called for the federal extension of Amtrak rail service to the Upper Peninsula.

Research is considered a key to meeting future needs. The governor encouraged extensive federal usage of Michigan's energy experts and research facilities in programs to develop and implement alternative energy sources and energy-conserving practices.

A state energy research fund would supplement federal funding, and tax incentives would help industry implement known, but costly, methods of energy conservation.

OTHER LONG-RANGE needs involve the siting of power plants; coordination of available energy supplies to demands for use; regulation of pipelines and storage fields; and labeling of appliances as to their rates of energy usage.

In all of these recommendations a strong emphasis was placed on avoiding loss of jobs and income. Energy must be utilized to get as many people as possible to work and to keep their places of employment in operation, if only for reduced hours.

Our chronic shortage of fuel is expected by many government energy experts to last at least five years. Individuals, industry, and government will all share a part of the inconvenience of low fuel supplies, or our neglect will force some segments of our populace to suffer an extremely harsh and unfair burden.

TOWNSHIP HALL EXPANSION — A $129,000 expansion program is under way at the Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Rd. A 3,000 square foot one-story building is being built at the northwest side of the present administrative offices. A covered runway will connect the hall with the new facility which will be used as a meeting room. Township officials decided to keep the new addition separate from the township offices so that groups can use the new meeting room without distracting or disturbing township business. The new addition also will relieve presently crowded conditions at the hall, an official said. — Enterprise photo.

Lions Club will aid The Number; Belleville group sets candy sale

Helping people is the goal of every Belleville Lion Club. A goal which is also fun and satisfying, they say. Helping people in need costs money — lots of it.

The Belleville Lions Club has increased its projects by supporting The Number, Belleville's crisis counseling center. An extra project calls for an extra effort from Lions and, consequently, from the community.

On Friday and Saturday of Lions Club members will conduct their annual sidewalk sale of candy, Santas and snowmen. The hours of the sale on Friday will be from 3 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

On Dec. 15, Lions members will participate in the annual Christmas parade selling candy canes. This year Santas and snowmen will sell for $1.25 and candy canes will sell for $1.

In addition to the Lions' new project of helping The Number, proceeds benefit other projects such as Leader Dog School for the Blind in Rochester, Welcome Home in Grand Rapids, Penickton Center in Taylor, Michigan Lions Eye Bank and many local needy persons who can not afford eye examinations and glasses.

Energy crisis started years ago

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

If nothing else, the nation's current energy crisis will make the American people appreciate what they have enjoyed, and more aware of their unhealthy attitude toward their natural resources.

The nation - including people of this area - have heard voices of doom talking, about the rapid depletion of the nation's natural resources.

The first concrete indication this area had received of any possible danger of losing energy sources was Consumers Power Company's announcement back in 1971 that it may be forced to cut off new natural gas customers in October of that year.

OTHER THAN THE fact that the announcement put a crimp in economic development plans for area communities, the announcement went widely unnoticed, until, nearly a year later, the company announced it would be forced to cut off gas to "interruptible customers," because supplies could not keep up with demand.

At that time, the concern was for Wayne County General Hospital, which had received the "interruptible" service, and had to seek another energy source to make steam for the hospital's heating.

Consumers was suffering from what it termed a lack of "pipeline supplies" of gas - attributing the lack to inadequate exploration for new gas sources.

The company, in effect, became a scapegoat for problems which would soon be facing the entire country - and which today we feel.

AMERICA HAS BASED its total economy on consumption. Presently our consumption per capita far exceeds in excess of the per capita total for the world.

American consumes nearly one-third of the world's resource output per year, yet it has only seven per cent of the world's population.

Although we are comfortable - we are energy pigs, utilizing valuable resources for frivolous reasons.

And now, we may be forced to pay.

NOT ONLY MAY WE be forced to give up our luxuries - snowmobiles, all terrain vehicles, motorhomes, power lawn mowers - but we may be forced to watch our use of what we consider "necessities" air conditioning, decorative lights, televisions, radios, and other items which are not always necessary to sustain life.

If there is a necessity to cut back on energy usage; it may mean a change in the American life-style.

Hopefully, if everyone cooperates now, the depleting resources can be stretched.

BUT, THE TENDENCY of those around us is to ignore the situation today, and hope for the best tomorrow.

Unfortunately, there may be no tomorrow.

There simply aren't as many energy sources today available for tapping as there were yesterday.

We have a choice, either to become aware, and to conserve, or to ignore the warnings, and continue as we have in the past - not too unlike our predecessors in 1929.

Legislator introduces football bill

A resolution calling upon the Big Ten to allow all conference teams to accept post-season bowl bids has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives by two area legislators.

The resolution sponsored by State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-Van Buren) and Raymond Kehres (D-Monroe) is a result of the Big Ten vote which sent Ohio State University and not Michigan State University to the Rose Bowl after they tied

Nov. 23.

It calls upon the conference to change its rules and permit other than the Rose Bowl representative to go to bowl games.

It is "tragically unjust," the resolution states, that Michigan, fourth-ranked and undefeated in 11 games, can not accept a bowl date.

Rep. Owen said the pact with Rose Bowl Committee restricts Michigan from attending another bowl and leaves the bowl decision entirely in the hands of Big Ten athletic directors which is wrong.

"We think this Rose Bowl pact allows the Big Ten athletic directors to infringe on the lives of individual students," Owen added. "This kind of unjust decision seriously could affect a lot of lives and could serve psychological damage to some football players."

The resolution suggest that the entire bowl selection process be put under NCAA jurisdiction rather than Big Ten jurisdiction, Gary added.

Township approves
vehicle resolution

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees has approved a resolution prohibiting commercial vehicles upon the streets of Van Buren Estates Subdivision unless such vehicles are making local deliveries or lawfully kept by residents.

Reports of an excessive number of commercial vehicles on the streets of the subdivision which has and is "creating a traffic safety hazard and an obstacle to adequate fire protection" prompt the adoption of the resolution by the trustees.

Motion for the resolution's approval was made by Van Buren Trustee Stephen Kuchta, who was supported by Van Buren Trustee and Township Police Commissioner Dominick W. Blend. The trustees in their resolution authorized the Wayne County Road Commission to erect at points of access to the subdivision signs reading "commercial vehicles prohibited except for local deliveries."

In a related matter the trustees approved an amendment to the uniform traffic code as adopted by township ordinance to include the definition of commercial vehicle to mean "all vehicles used for the transportation of passengers for hire, or construction or used for transportation of goods, wares or merchandise, including such vehicles as may be designed to draw or to be drawn by other vehicles."

Missionary Church is doing with youth through its Michigan District, a church spokesman said.

Rev. Robert Eagle, director of youth for the district periodically has been putting together a small group ministry for teen-agers which takes them to foreign countries for a short term ministry.

THIS ENCOURAGES
ambitious youth of the 52
Missionary Churches in Michigan to become missionaries in their own way, receiving a first hand vision of the field visited and foreign experience while still in high school.

Missionaries from the field have reported outstanding success as the teams often go beyond the scope of the local missionaries. Their ministry to youth is "often overwhelming."

The youth becomes a member of the team by having a good testimony and some special talent, being a member of a Missionary Church, raising their own money, and passing district examiners.

To assist the youth in raising money and to prepare them with stage presence and performance experience, the teen team is scheduled in area
Missionary Churches before going to their designated country.

Zion Missionary Church is located at 89 S. Edgemont St.,
